

“Without us you’d be naked, hungry, and sober.” declared a TED speaker we will feature this Sunday at TEDxVail. Some questions you might consider: What does it take to launch a regenerative company? What policies are in service to sustainable living? How do we restore life to a broken planet?

Join artist, farmer, chef, entrepreneur, activist, environmental leader, member of parliament in the UK, community organizer, politician to listen and learn about climate solutions. With these decent humans this Sunday, December 10 save your spot for TEDxVail here:
<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/tedxvail-countdown-tickets-754548172897>.

Be more than a passive listener, join the conversation embedded in the middle of two powerful sessions of TED Talks suggesting things you could do, think, feel about our planetary stewardship of our Earthly home. Make your point of view and response known in intimate online deep dives and listening. We welcome your attention and value your time. We promise our very best in generating hope to your vision of a finer future.

Kat Haber, who listened to thousands over the 8 months she journeyed across the USA in 2014 from LA to DC in the Great March for Climate Action, is the pioneering organizer of TEDxVail since 2009. She is a deep thinker and connector about wholistic solutions to our current systemic breakdowns in nature. She convenes the elder's COuncil for the Center for Alaskan Coastal Studies and on the board of WILD for 18 years. She writes about climate and earthcare at World Pulse. She mentors youth in speaking at TEDxVailYouth, Coalition WILD, and Moonshot Pirates. She's particularly proud of the pause...COUNTDOWN: COVID Clues, Climate Acts, Local Impacts-conversations the TEDxVail Team did in the early months of COVID 19 shut down on human relationships and how we can collectively respond at scale, with speed, and respect. You can find those at TEDxVail.com TEDxVail online events have received 3 perfect Net Promoter Scores of 100. We are continuously learning to be better communicators together.

