INTRODUCTION

The introduction should contain (in sequence) a general background and the research question or hypothesis. The literature review is included in this chapter and is written at the end of the introduction in a flowing and structured manner within the introduction. All cited sources should be listed in the bibliography using American Psychological Association (APA) style and Mendeley. (12pt, 1.15 line spacing).

METHOD (12pt, bold)

The research methods section should describe the methods used to answer the research problem formulation, including the analytical methods. It should contain sufficient detail to enable the reader to evaluate the appropriateness of the methods as well as the reliability and validity of the findings. (12pt, 1.15 line spacing).

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION (12pt, bold)

The author must explain the research findings (what was found) in detail. The results and discussion section contains the research findings and analysis. The findings obtained from the research conducted must be written with additional support from adequate data. The research results and analysis must be able to answer or provide an explanation for the questions stated in the introduction. (12pt, 1.15 lines spacing).

CONCLUSION (12pt, bold)

The conclusion chapter should contain a summary of the conclusions from the findings and analysis obtained and recommendations based on the findings and analysis obtained. The recommendations should present further matters based on the research results. (12pt, 1.15 lines spacing).

The length of the journal manuscript is 15-20 pages and can be written in English.

REFERENCES (12pt, bold)

All references mentioned must be written in the reference using the American Psychological Association (APA) style and arranged from A to Z. This must include references obtained from primary sources (consisting of scientific journals amounting to 80% of the entire bibliography) that have been published in the last 10 (ten) years. The remaining 20% can include sources from books, news or other related publication reports. Reference writing uses Mendeley (12pt, single). There must be a minimum of 15 references.
