

Name: Old Grey Wolf

Age: 63

Gender: Male

Species: Alligator Snapping Turtle

Occupation: Curmudgeonly Bastard / Local Legend

Physical Description: Old Grey Wolf is a 150 kilogram 1 meter long monster of a snapping turtle. His dark green and tan spiked shell is covered in scars from a lifetime of battles, and his meatball of a head has a wide scar going over a missing left eye. The scars in his shell from how he fights has formed an almost floral pattern, reminiscent the patterns on a Hawaiian shirt. Despite not having a ton of facial muscles, Old Grey Wolf almost always has an astronomically mean mug and often snaps aggressively at the smallest provocation.

Personality: If Old Grey Wolf had it his way everyone would just leave him alone. However a lifetime of fighting anything or anyone who glanced at him the wrong way has invited a lifetime of trouble. A living grudge in a shell, he has traveled from south florida across the caribbean to track down those who he feels have wronged him. From a BP oil executive to numerous poachers to an ass who threw a beer can at him many fools have drawn the ire of this turtle, and few have lived to tell the tale unharmed.

However underneath the hardened shell, Old Grey Wolf is pretty alright. He respects those who give him respect, and can easily be bribed to share some stories with a few raw chicken thighs and a dog bowl full of beer. He is living proof that while you can take the turtle out of Florida, you cannot take the Florida out of the turtle.
