

PGR Knowledge Exchange Researcher Proposition Form

You can directly send this form to potential partners or use the content of this form in your communications with them. This means the reader of this form is meant to be your potential partner. For official partners of the NWCDTP, please liaise with the PGR Placements and Partnerships Officer to introduce you.

Full Name
Email
University
Discipline
Proposed Partner Organisation	Location, website and brief intro (50 words)
Placement Scheme	If the project will sit within an external placement scheme offered by the partner or other external body (e.g. a research residency scheme) please add a link to their website.
Summary of your placement project idea (max 200 words)
Who will benefit from the project? You can use this Activity sheet if you need help identifying potential stakeholders and beneficiaries. This is the space to make connections with your chosen partner's audiences, stakeholders and communities.
What value will this project bring to the partner? How will this project contribute to their priorities/mission/strategic goals? What opportunities could the project bring them? (200 words max).
Please provide a brief summary of your PhD topic, focusing on its points of relevance for this project, if any (it does not need to be connected). This should be suitable for a non-specialist audience. (150 words max.)
Working preferences: Full time or part time, hybrid or remote working, project duration, timeline.

Please include a professional CV (paste it or add a link to the online doc below).

Researcher's signature (digital)

Date

Next steps: Once you have discussed the above project idea with the chosen partner, the following step will then be to collaborate with them to define the actual project and its deliverables, following the Project Definition Document, that you can then submit to the Humanities placements or the NWCDTP placements schemes to get funding for your project.