Abstract

The abstract should concisely inform the reader about the purpose of the manuscript, the data and methods, the findings, and their implications. The abstract should be relatively non-technical, yet clear enough for a knowledgeable reader to understand the manuscript's contribution. The abstract should be no more than 200 words and should use Times New Roman font. (11pt)

Keywords: Words in keywords are sorted alphabetically. (11pt)

INTRODUCTION (12 PT)

The introduction should be clear and present the problem to be discussed in the manuscript. Before the objective, authors should provide adequate background and a brief literature survey to note existing solutions, research limitations, the author's expectations, and the scientific strengths or novelties of the paper. At the end of the paragraph, authors should add a commentary on the significance of the problem and the research objectives. (Devandri et al, 2023).

LITERATURE REVIEW AND HYPOTHESES DEVELOPMENT (12 PT)

Contains a theoretical review and development of a framework for thinking, as well as research hypotheses.

METHODS

Research methods are optional for research articles. They are written descriptively, including the research design, population and sample, operational definitions, instruments, and analytical tools.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

This is the most crucial part of your article. The analysis or research findings should be concise and clear. They should summarize (scientifically) the findings rather than provide detailed data. Please highlight any differences between your results or findings and previous publications by other researchers.

Table Usage:

Table 1. Result of the Coefficient of Determination Test

R	R Square	Adjusted R Square	Std. Error
.669 ^a	.448	.442	3.73853

Table 2. Results of F Statistical Test

	Model	Sum of Squares	Df	Mean Square	F	Sig.
1	Regression	4312.237	4	1078.059	77.133	.000 ^b
	Residual	5311.103	380	13.977
	Total	9623.340	384

Tables, graphs, or images can be used to support explanations. Use the established format for including tables, graphs, or images. Tables, graphs, or images should be centered. Tables, graphs, and images can be placed at the top or bottom of the text and should not be

CONCLUSION

The conclusion contains a description that answers the research objectives. Do not repeat the abstract or simply describe the research results. Provide a clear explanation of the application and/or recommendations related to the research findings.
