

Thomas Gerlach

Mrs. Newman

Senior English, Per.4

2/29/16

Hitler Did Nothing Wrong

Adolf Hitler is famous for being the leader of Third Reich in Nazi Germany from 1934 to 1945.

He was given total power, which allows him to do whatever he wanted. These are some of the cause of World War 2 but he is also known for his hate of Jews, and he started the "Endlösung der Judenfrage" or "Final Solution of the Jewish Question" or better known as The Holocaust.

Hitler is given about 30 million death caused by the Holocaust and WWII. How did he get away with this is crazy. The Holocaust cover up alone is one of the worst things in human history. How most of the German population didn't know about 6 million Jews being killed in gas chambers.

Adolf Hitler in 1934 became the Führer. His party took control of all of the government which he used to cover up anything thing he wanted or do anything he wanted. The people loved him because what he did let out was the rapid recovery of the German economy, thousands of new jobs, and even the 1936 Olympics games came to Berlin. The reason why Hitler did nothing wrong is because the people of Germany gave him the power to do what it took to save Germany which let to his abuse of power and the ultimate cause of WWII. The reason why I wrote about this is because I love history, it's one of my favorite subjects and my favorite part of history is WWII. I want to show people that if certain events didn't happen in the Second World War the world we know today would be completely different.

For this project I will need to research a lot of WWII documents, time and dates, battles, and the overall reason for the war. The thing about WWII is the war itself is just a continued WWI. It is the same powers fighting against each other again. For most of the Axis powers it trying to fix their countries, for Germany it was for more land for their people and the unfair treaty of Versailles and for Japan it was for more resources because they are a small island and are limited to that island. I know a lot of WWII but I just know about certain information and would need to look up the dates of certain things like the Battle of Midway. I will need to know how I'm going to share this information with everyone. I believe I going to post some lesson or some information about the topic and have some friends tell me who they think in the comments. I'm going to look at some documentaries about the war; I also got a book on the fall of Nazi Germany called The Third Reich Demise of the Nazi Dream by Earle Rice Jr. I was also planning to interview Mr. Haywood because he was a AP American History teacher and it be good to have someone else's opinion on the American side. I believe my research will result in an outline of WWII. Not just the things most people know, but for things a lot people didn't know.

In conclusion I believe my project will be very viable topic because it is a very researchable topic and would be very much education and as well be lets me express myself to the world.