QUESTIONS TO ASK YOUR CHARACTER BEFORE SESSIONS ZERO

Feel free to answer all, or some of the prompts below:

1. Why am I in Wardenwood, and what did I do before my journey?
2. What do I specialize in? Do I have a profession or a passion?
3. Have I ever fought or held a sword before? Am I prepared to fight or am I best at talking? Neither?
4. When someone needs help, what do my instincts tell me to do? Will I rise to the occasion?
5. Team Jacob or team Edward
6. If I had a theme song, what would it be? OR what's my favorite song?
7. If I had a job and hobbies in the modern world, what would they be?

WHAT NOT TO BRING TO THE TABLE

Guidelines to a successful QUEER DND group. Please abide.

Fantasy and fiction are morally gray areas of expression, and we are a very open group of individuals but please be aware of behavior and tropes we will not be allowed at the table or in our groups:

- ❖ Actively playing out hate crimes (backgrounds where a character experiences these things is accepted as long as it isn't terribly graphic and respectfully depicted).
- ❖ Extremism behavior such as “murder hobo” characters, or uncooperative behavior to the point of group dysfunction.
- ❖ You may play morally ambiguous characters, just talk to the DM (Blaise) about how we can align the groups goals to your character's. Everyone loves an unwilling hero! And there's a way to weave everything synergistically!
- ❖ Joke characters. You may make characters as funny as you'd like, any race you would like (so long as the setting and story permit) but please root your character in a strong, and serious foundation. We are story-tellers and roleplayers who are here to create meaningful worlds together, and joke characters might risk the enjoyment and immersion of other players (our friends!)

PLEASE! If there are any additional rules or triggers you'd like me to be aware of, my lines of communication are always open and I'm happy to work with you with them! We are an openly QUEER group of players who understand that things may come up, just talk with me or the group and we can find ways to make everyone comfortable. ^_^
