LITERATURE REVIEW

This section must be clearly written with the variable components. It provides practical information about thought flow, conceptual frameworks, and relevant research. The section headings are arranged by Numbers, bold and 11,5 pt Book Antiqua, single spacing. Paragraphs shall be single-spaced with indent.

The section headings are arranged by Numbers, bold and 11,5 pt Book Antiqua, single spacing. Paragraphs shall be single-spaced with indent.

METHOD

The Research Methods section describes in detail how the study was conducted. A complete description of the methods used enables the reader to evaluate the appropriateness of the research methodology. The Participants/Subject/Population and Sample used in the study should be stated. What, how, to whom the instruments used in the study should be explained. How the data was analyzed in the study should be described.

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

This section contains the findings of the study in which the results and discussion is not done separation. The hope in this discussion the author examines the findings and cross-reference with the study of theoretical and empirical studies.

Subheading 1 (research question 1)

Subheading

The findings cover the summarized collected data and the analysis performed on those data relevant to the issue that is to follow. The findings should be clear and concise. It should be written objectively and factually, and without expressing personal opinion. It includes numbers, tables, and figures (e.g., charts and graphs).

The discussion section is intended to interpret the findings of the study in accordance with the theories used and not merely describe the finding. The discussion must be enriched by referring to the results of previous studies that have been published in scientific journals. Furthermore, the discussion should be a reasoned and justifiable commentary on the importance of your findings. This section states why the problem is important; what larger issues and what propositions are confirmed or disconfirmed by the extrapolation of these findings to such overarching issues.

CONCLUSION

A conclusion is not merely a re-statement of the data or findings, but a synthesis of key points and, as mentioned in the "Introduction" which eventually produces the "Findings and Discussion" chapter so that there is compatibility. In addition, the prospects for developing research results and the prospects for future research applications (based on results and discussion) can also be added.
