

CCCC WIKIPEDIA INITIATIVE

One of the most visited websites in the world, Wikipedia has emerged within living memory as a key knowledge-broker and perception-shaper for readers and writers worldwide. Writing expert knowledge into Wikipedia is one important way we can address knowledge gaps, imbalances, and misinformation online. Established in 2019, the CCCC Wikipedia Initiative proceeds from the conviction that it matters to edit Wikipedia, especially for academics committed to knowledge equity as a fundamental groundwork for social justice. The CCCC Wikipedia Initiative is working to develop skills, cultivate inclusive community, and build structures of support and recognition for past, present, and future CCCC members who recognize the importance of engaging with Wikipedia as a form of global public humanities scholarship.

WikiProject Writing

Campaign Dashboard

Mailing List

For CCCC 2025, we invite you to edit Wikipedia to improve coverage of writing, rhetoric, and composition studies topics.

1. Sign in and sign up at the Campaign Dashboard: <https://bit.ly/4C25dashboard>
2. Check WikiProject Writing for resources and topics to edit: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Wikipedia:WikiProject_Writing
3. Once you've made some edits, find the CCCC Wikipedia Initiative table in the Action Hub to win prizes. Win a Wikipedia t-shirt or Remarkable Notebook with 5 edits! 3 edits gets you a Wikipedia pen, pin, or button. Or just stop by to chat!

4. Join our mailing list to hear about future happenings and news:
<https://groups.io/g/WikiProjectWriting>