

Describe a time when you didn't want to do something, but somebody else talked you into it
You should say: What it was that you didn't want to do, Why you didn't want to do it, Who talked you into it, How did they talk you into it, And in the end, were you glad you did it, or not?

Before you begin, write down any vocabulary that you will need to tell this story.

Do NOT write full sentences. Just write down useful vocabulary words.

If you don't know the word in English, you may use a dictionary, ask your teacher, or ask your classmates.

Describe a time when you didn't want to do something, but somebody else talked you into it
You should say: What it was that you didn't want to do, Why you didn't want to do it, Who talked you into it, How did they talk you into it, And in the end, were you glad you did it, or not?

Before you begin, write down any vocabulary that you will need to tell this story.

Do NOT write full sentences. Just write down useful vocabulary words.

If you don't know the word in English, you may use a dictionary, ask your teacher, or ask your classmates.

Describe a time when you didn't want to do something, but somebody else talked you into it. You should say: What it was that you didn't want to do, Why you didn't want to do it, Who talked you into it, How did they talk you into it, And in the end, were you glad you did it, or not?

