

Erosion of the ECI's Independence: Supreme Court's Judgment in Anoop Baranwal as a Welcome Alternative [Title]

By XYZ [By-Line]

*In this article, the author shows how the Constitutional framework for appointments to the Election Commission of India has permitted the compromise of its independent character. Through this, she posits that the new method of appointment laid down by the Supreme Court in its recent judgment of Anoop Baranwal v. Union of India is an alternative worth exploring, even though its consequences are yet to be witnessed.* [Summary]

[Introduction]

I. Constituent Assembly Concerns Regarding Article 324 [First level heading]

[Body]

II. Inadequately Addressed?

A. Legislative Lapses [Second level heading]

[Body]

B. Court approved Executive Control

[Body]

III. In Interim Solution Worth Exploring

[Includes conclusion]