

Dear Rector and Visitors of the University of Virginia,

We, as members of the University and Charlottesville community, seek your attention on a crucial matter pertaining to the integrity of the University and the Charlottesville community. With the renovation and reopening of the main library, the University is left with an important decision to make: to take the morally correct stance and cease honoring Edwin Alderman, a known racist and proud eugenicist. We trust the BOV to be on the right side of history for this issue and hope that you vote to change the name of the largest library at the University of Virginia.

We acknowledge the University's desire to uplift Alderman's legacy as the first President of UVA due to the substantial contributions he made for the University, particularly in expanding higher education for women and democratizing education; however, we believe that it is important to reckon with the past horrors that Alderman committed that had not just negative impacts on the University, but negative implications on race relations around the world. We implore members of the University community to engage with and act on the idea that his negative influence at and beyond the University outweigh other notable impacts he had on the University.

In 1908,¹ three years into his tenure as President of the University, Edwin Alderman described the Black community as an “untaught and backward race” and stated that “the negro race is steadily declining in the South, and must continue to decline in relative numbers.” Alderman regularly recruited numerous leading Eugenacists who pushed the narrative that sterilization was a needed intervention and claimed the inferiority of Black individuals. This guided the education of UVA students in which those majoring in biology were required to enroll in a course, “Heredity and Eugenics,” and write about topics including miscegenation and sterilization. During his presidency, Alderman also accepted a $1,000 donation from the KKK in 1921. Today, this would equate to $17,000. These harms did not stop at the impact of those at the University and Charlottesville community. The Eugenics program at the University under Alderman's presidency also led to the development of the Tuskegee Syphilis Study, in which treatment was denied to 399 Black men. The University of Virginia's Eugenics work conducted under President Alderman was also later used to justify the Holocaust.²³ As we enter a new era of the University & the main library, Edwin Alderman cannot be the namesake of such an important building for students to gather.

Ultimately, the act of ceasing to honor symbols that have had a hand in both widespread harm and the University's progress is not unprecedented. One of the most recent and notable instances of this was the Board of Visitors decision in 2020 to cease honoring J.L.M Curry⁴, an educator active in upholding rigid racial segregation in education. On September 11, 2020, Curry's name was dropped from the School of Education's name, with the Board of Visitors stating that Curry's racist history regarding his support for slavery, segregation, and The Confederacy ultimately outweighed the progressive contributions he made.⁵ For this reason, we assert that Edwin Alderman should be treated with the same precedent outlined by the Board of Visitors in their decision with J.L.M Curry.

Another instance of successful renaming can be witnessed in the very recent name change of Pinn Hall, formerly Jordan Hall, as of 2016. Harvey Jordan, the original namesake of the building, was handpicked by Alderman to spur a long history of centering eugenics in research and curriculum at the University. For ten years (1939-1949), Jordan served as the dean of the School of Medicine.⁶ His specializations in genetics and embryology were so deeply immersed in eugenics that his reasoning for higher rates of disease in Black communities was attributed to inherent genetic qualities. Jordan represents the belligerent quest to embed scientific racism into education, legislation, and culture. Inversely, the multifaceted career of Dr. Vivian Pinn spans from her trailblazing legacy as the only woman and only Black student in the 1967 School of Medicine to her continuous work toward advancing women's professional and educational careers.

We understand that the library, if not named Alderman, will be named after Edgar Shannon, President of UVA from 1959 to 1974. We support this change as President Shannon has made numerous significant contributions to this University, contributing to the diversity we see today. At the height of integration and massive resistance in Virginia, President Shannon helped establish a nondiscrimination policy, increased Black enrollment at the University, and made the University co-educational.⁷ Additionally, at the height of protests during the Vietnam War, President Shannon adhered to students' demands by writing a letter to Congress and formally condemning the War.⁸ Lastly, during Shannon's tenure as president, students successfully demanded the creation of an African-American/African Studies program.⁹ As we work to reinvigorate student self-governance with a demographic of more diverse students, we deem it essential to have our central library named after a president who was most interested in listening to and supporting the diverse needs of students. Alderman was not that president.

As members of the community, we strongly hope that you adhere to our wishes and vote to rename Alderman Library to demonstrate the University's commitment to progress.
