

Note: I have had Dahlia since 2014 and ever since she's been through many changes. Some of the lore has been built through heavy plotting and it is not at all related to PJO, so I ask that you don't copy anything off this bio.

—GENERAL.

NAME: Dahlia Maryl Quinn
NICKNAMES: Dahli, Lia, The Pythia
AGE: 23 (August 24th)
SPECIES: Demigoddess, daughter of Apollo
OCCUPATION: Dahlia owns a small spiritual shop where she does tarot readings, crystal work, energy reading. She is also the new Pythia, which requires her to work with the gods and deliver new prophecies onto the new heroes of the Greek Mythos world.

RELIGION: Hellenistic.

LINEAGE: Rosalia Quinn is her mother, whilst David Quinn is her step father. Damen Faustus Griffin, aka Apollo, is her true father.

IDENTITY: cis-gender woman, bisexual.

ASTROLOGY:

- Virgo Sun - Solar Virgos have a strong sense of responsibility. Even when they've convinced themselves to be irresponsible about something or

I want to live a life I can be proud of. I want to be myself and I want to be happy. Let truth and love guide me. Apollo, and I shall honour your light.

the other, they worry about it. Even when their lives are filled up with work, they are restless and somewhat nervous creatures. The fear of under-performing is often strong. Virgos want to do things well.

- Virgo Moon - Some people with Virgo Moons are accused of being underachievers. While it may be true that Lunar Virgos can lack self-confidence, many are--quite simply--content with living "regular", unassuming lives. They appreciate simplicity, and are often most comfortable when they're not getting too much attention from the world at large. Lunar Virgos are often shy with new people. However, when they are comfortable, they are anything but shy. More often than not, others can count on Moon in Virgo people. They are reliable and trustworthy. Above all else, Lunar Virgos are practical. Others turn to them for help and advice.

- Scorpio Rising - Scorpio rising people value their privacy so much, it can border on paranoia. They have a strong need to control their environment and are experts at strategy. Rarely people who will blow their chances with impatience, they plan out their moves carefully and deliberately, relying on their awesome ability to feel out others and situations. Scorpio rising people, in their dealings with others, look for answers by reading between the lines. Surface details are discarded when they are getting a feel for people and situations around them.

BIRTHPLACE: Delos, Greece.

SOCIAL STATUS: Dahlia was raised in a picture perfect family until the age of 16, her step-father being an American businessman based in New York whilst her mother was a very popular ballet dancer who opened her own ballet academy. Dahlia was raised in luxury, though she never got as much as her brothers, and at 16, upon being disowned, she lost everything she had. Now, Dahlia is very much a working class individual, living day after day with minimal income.

EDUCATION: Dahlia was a great student. Above her normal studies, Dahlia also studied medicine from the age of 12, which was prompted by her mother who took advantage of her daughter's lineage from the god of medicine. Whilst Dahlia mainly learnt theory, this was a lot for a child to learn on top of normal academia, which she also had to excel in. She did not manage to finish high school due to being disowned and homeless for a long time.

ABILITIES: Fire and solar manipulation, healing, emotion manipulation, summoning Apollo's sun wolves, prophesying the future, contacting the gods.

—BACKGROUND.

The Quinns are famous for their history of influential and rich family members that it produced. They are also very well known for their wealth in the American society. David and Rosalia's children have been on the covers of magazines from the day that they were born.

Dahlia lived with her mother, father and two older brothers until she was sixteen. The secret of Rosalia's adventure with another man which led to Dahlia being born was exposed to the world, thus endangering the family's name and reputation. David had never liked the girl, not only because she wasn't his child, but also because of the 'odd' activities that she engaged in, or the things that she would take interest in. Rosalia protected her from David's anger many times, though even her mother's attitude towards her can be described as cold and distant. Rosalia Quinn was a tough teacher in every aspect - teaching Dahlia that her emotions are her weakness and how to hide them, teaching her ballet, hiring a medicine tutor at the age of 12. Once disowned, Dahlia was sent to live on her own with only enough money to get her through the first two months.

Being away from her family meant that she could finally live the life she wanted, although it was harder to do than she thought. Loneliness combined with a social soul that yearns others did not and still doesn't have a good impact on Dahlia's wellbeing. Despite opening her own (small) business, Dahlia is still struggling to live a normal life.

Apollo approaches her and takes her under his wing by exposing her destiny as the Pythia through a vision.

Dahlia begins her journey as the Oracle of Apollo long after she escapes her family. When she accepts her title and destiny, the fates visit her in a vision to warn her of what being an oracle means. Sadness beyond comprehension, the watchful and judging eyes of every god always set on her, the anger of occultists who wish her dead. Her life as an Oracle begins with the threat of being murdered by people who want the gods to be silenced and forgotten once more.

Dahlia continues her training under Apollo's guidance where she learns how to read signs from other gods, how to listen when something or someone tries to contact her, and how to control other powers inherited from Apollo's blood — emotion manipulation, solar and fire manipulation, healing, summoning Apollo's loyal wolves.

Only two months after becoming an oracle, Dahlia receives the first threat. It does not come in physical format, like a letter, but as an attack on Dahlia's psyche. She feels herself surrounded by darkness and hears a distant voice :
“ THE GODS WILL REMAIN DEAD. APOLLO'S RIVER WILL NEVER RUN

AGAIN. ” The vision is dispelled by Dahlia and the words NEA ZOI remain in her head.

The Nea Zoi are a global occultist mercenary group who have fought for the silencing of the ancient gods of all mythos. Their goal is erasing polytheism and bringing the death of all polytheistic mythos. They have kidnapped demigods and enslaved them into doing their bidding, like killing fellow demigods, informing the group of any demigod movement and turning against their gods. Although the Nea Zoi have information on all descendants of the gods, an oracle hasn't been spotted since the death of the Pythia. An oracle is a dangerous tool; they have golden lips to praise the gods to non believers and pull them in, they spread the teachings of the gods, they bring gods back to life. For this reason, the Nea Zoi want Dahlia dead.

Apollo gifts her a sun sword after the vision and trains her. Dahlia is able to protect herself against the mercenaries and their enslaved demigods and creatures. She relies on her prophetic powers to know when they will attack, but they are not always shown to her, so the oracle is vulnerable. Dahlia has always lived looking over her shoulder, but now she does so more than ever.
