Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder

Overview: The 4 types of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder are explained. Learn the ways in which ADHD in youth with hearing loss impacts several skills necessary for school success such as executive function, self-control, and self-regulation. Find out why students with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder respond differently to consequences, rewards, and accommodations as well as what to do about it.

Quiz

Here is the Powerpoint
Here is the Video

1. What are the 4 types of ADHD recognized by the medical community per the manual known as the DMS IV?

2. Complete the information needed in this table.

Type of ADHD	Characteristics	Implication on learning

3. What is executive function, and how might it impact a student's success in school? Explain what is meant by 'cueless'.

4. How does ADHD challenge a student's self-control and self-regulation?

5. Discuss the various approaches to ADHD of consequences, rewards, and accommodations.

6. Compare and contrast 2 forms of ADHD and the recommended accommodations.

7. Investigate the benefit of social skills training for students with ADHD.

8. What are some skills that can be taught to improve a student's executive function?

9. What are your medical responsibilities as related to students with ADHD?

10. What are your medical limitations as related to students with ADHD?