

Authors: Sabina Tuzika, Diana Apeine, Ksenija Kalinina, Ksenija Scerbakova, Kristians Dobkevics, Elina Krupska, Agneta Zimova, Pola W., Kamila K., Marta F., Martyna O.

A Fox and a Rabbit (group 1&2)

Once upon a time there lived a Fox who always lied. One day a Rabbit went to the shop and met the Fox.

“Hi Rabbit! Where are you going?” asked the Fox.

“I go to the shop,” said the Rabbit.

“For what? I have a magical rock, which can produce a lot of cabbage, but you probably don't want,” said the Fox.

“No, I want!” said the Rabbit.

And the Rabbit gave his last money to the fox to get this rock.

Next day the Rabbit planted the rock.

After that she waited for three days but nothing happened.

One sunny day, the Rabbit came out of his hole in the ground to enjoy the weather. The day was so nice that Rabbit became careless, so Fox crept up to her and grabbed her.

“I will eat you for dinner!”

“Wait!” answered the Rabbit, “You should at least wait a few days. I'm waiting for the rock to work and writing a book.”

“Ha! This is a silly excuse but what's the title of your work?”

“I am writing a thesis on the superiority of rabbits over foxes.”

“Are you crazy? Everyone knows that the Fox will always win with the Rabbit.”

“Not exactly. If you want, you can come to my hole and read it yourself. If you're not convinced, you can go and eat me for lunch.”

Since the Fox was curious he went with the Rabbit to her den. Fox never came back. A few days later, Rabbit was taking a break from writing again, and a wolf had come out of the bushes. He wanted to eat her.

“Wait!” shouted the Rabbit, “You can't eat me now.”

“Why is that?”, asked the wolf.

“I have almost finished writing my book about the superiority of rabbits over foxes and wolves. Come and read it for yourself, you can eat me later if you disagree with my conclusions.”

So the Wolf went to the Rabbit's hole and never came out.

The Rabbit finished writing his thesis and celebrated on lettuce. Another Rabbit came and asked:

"What's up? You seem very happy. "

"Yes, I've just finished writing my book."

"Congratulations! What's going on?"

"It is entitled "The Superiority of Rabbits Over Foxes and Wolves. "

"Are you sure? It does not sound realistic."

"Oh yeah, you should come and read it yourself."

So they went together to the Rabbit's hole. When they got inside, the friend saw a pile of Fox's bones on the right, a pile of wolf bones on the left, and in the center there was a lion.

The moral (Group 1): The moral of this story is that you should not trust those who you don't know.

The moral (Group 2): ....THE MORAL IS THAT THE FIRST THE FOX LIED THE RABBIT BUT THE NEXT RABBIT cheated HIM TOO.

THE LITTLE DOLPHIN AND THE CRAB (group 3&4)

Little dolphins play in the water. Everyone is happy because the weather in their city is warm and sunny. The sea is clear. All but one dolphin dance and swim. He's worried. He noticed strange things floating through his lagoon. People call it ships and nets.

The little dolphin is entangled in a net. Suddenly, the crab appeared in front of him.

"Can you help me get out of this net?" The dolphin asked. The crab just laughed and swam away. With a lot of effort, the dolphin somehow managed to get out of the net.

The next morning, the little dolphin and his friends migrated to somewhere else. The little dolphin was worried because he remembered how he was entangled in the net the day before. Suddenly, he heard a strange voice that sounded like a scream. He told his friends about this but nobody cared; So he left the group and swam towards the voice. The little dolphin soon found out who was screaming: it was the crab.

The crab was stuck in the mud and she said to the dolphin "Can you help me please?" The little dolphin didn't want to help at first and turned his back. But the crab was crying sadly and apologized for her mistake. The dolphin felt pity for her and decided to help.

He took the crab out of the mud and cleaned her with his fins. At that moment, a net captured both of them and they were shaking with fear. The crab cut the net with her nippers and the little dolphin made the holes bigger with his fins. They joined their forces and got rid of the net.

They realized that they were stronger together because union was the greatest strength. They became friends and lived happily ever after.

- THE END -

The moral (Group 3): The moral is that you need to help others if you want to be helped.

The moral (Group 4): ....