S Solution

SL: Have You still not learned the language You`re learning?

You`ve spent a lot of time just learning one Language You like,

Learning day after day the Grammar, Vocabulary, and perception of the ear,

About speaking skills, I won`t even tell you anything about....

And you are still on the same level you`ve achieved, and not even close to the level of the "native language" You wanted?

What are You gonna do in this case? 🤔

Let`s face it: You`re definitely MISSING something important in the learning Time.

And this is the Problem.

But fortunately, this problem has a solution and this is not the only case.

Right now You`re looking at the solution to Your problem, that can push you out of the Limit
You`re stuck in.

Breaking the limits of your problem

S Story

O Offer

SL: Things could have gone in a different direction.

It seemed very hard but....

I was just an ordinary student in Columbia University, not different from other students in the Medicine Course.

And there was a little problem..

The Director of the University himself gave me two variations of ways to develop

"Either I will fly to Japan(IN A YEAR) and take out there a lot of experience or I will be thrown out from University"

So, what did I do? 😞

Of course, i went off

Would I say so, but my Mother.... She was another opinion.

The first months of seeking suitable Japanese courses with a medical bias were meaningless

I didn't find anything... Nor online courses neither in reality.

One day sitting on the bench in the front of University, I received something, that ALLOWED me to learn Japan language before exams.

And here I am, It`s been one year already.

Right now I`m one of the best students in Tokyo National University in the Medicine Faculty. 😊

When I got home after the year in Japan,

I went to the University to meet with the director, I thought that he will be praising me.

But instead, he just asked: "And, How do you like my joke about Japan"? 😏

This old Bastard.... 😡

But if You still want to know. How i learned the Japanese Language.

Then just click there from below, and dive in learning Japanese

Warning!! The link will provide You with closed knowledge about learning Languages
