Main Character Interview – Cole

Come up with four interview questions for Cole. These should be open-ended questions in the style of an interview you might read in a magazine.

Answer each interview question in Cole's voice. Each answer should be at least two strong sentences.

Your questions and your answers should show your understanding of Cole: the type of person he is; how he handled different situations; how he felt during certain situations, etc.

Example (for The Call of the Wild – with John Thornton)

DL: It must have been difficult to see Buck beaten to near death. What was going through your mind, and what caused you to react the way you did?

JT: It was horrible to see Buck and the others in such a miserable state. The two men and women leading the dogs were criminals and fools. At first, I didn't know whether I should step in – especially once they began to consider leading the dogs to their deaths on the melting ice, but when I saw Hal begin to beat the life out of Buck I couldn't control myself. Something inside of me took over. I didn't care what happened to the men – they knew what they were doing and went against better judgment, but the poor beasts had no choice. I'm just glad I was able to save Buck.
