

Falerii Novi

Destination

- Name Falerii Novi
- Type Large town
- Population Registered 3,598 as of the previous census

→ Description:

◆ Taboos

- Every place has its own way of doing things or thinking. You better know up front what this town's is. You have no idea if your social faux pas will get you ignored or arrested. So pay attention. In Falerii Novi, eating fish is proscribed (limited by law) to one day a week only. Tyrstdgr. [\[\[Downtime activity\]\]](#)

→ Government

- ◆ Falerii Novi politics are administered and orchestrated by Count Asteropaeus Simon Turnus with the assistance of his first officer Evasive Butterfly Nyx (demon female) and second officer Piquir Malicious (satyr male) and various ad hoc appointees too numerous and changed on a whim to mention.

→ Underworld

- ◆ Common, but not officially acknowledged, knowledge exists of a vibrant Der Verband presence. The leader of which is assumed, but with no actual proof, to be Piquir Malicious, a sly satyr, serves as the Count's cunning second officer. Whispers of bribery and blackmail swirl around him, yet no evidence ever sticks. With a devilish grin and a knack for manipulation, he dances through legal loopholes, leaving townsfolk wary and powerless. Beware the hooves that leave no trace.

→ Altars/Relics

◆ 7 altars

- Saidan Fujin. Japanese
- Uviaksaat Kasimmavik Nanook. Inuit
- Agia Trapeza tou Hephaestus. Greek Olympian
- Agia Trapeza pros tin Demeter. Greek Olympian
- Owaka Wakan Anpao. Sioux
- Momoztli Atlatonan. Aztec

- Saidan Owadatsumi. Japanese
- ◆ 9 shrines
 - Heaiu i Haumea. Hawaiian

- ◆ 5 chapels
 - Parekklisi tou Zeus. Greek Olympian
 - Mammisi Set. Egyptian
 - Parekklisi gia Athena
 - Parekklisi pros tin Hera
 - Iitáwaatsímoyihkao'p Napi. Blackfoot
- ◆ 6 churches
 - Kirke til Thor. Norse
 - In front of the altar in a clear mythrill case is a single large goat horn, tradition holds it is from Tanngnjöstr
 - Kirk de Cernunnos. Celtic
 - Atop the pulpit area features a two foot long deer antler, said to have been shed by the horned god himself
 - Kostal z Paerun. Slavic
 - In the central gallery of this church rests an oak-wood carved bust of an ox with a horn spread of eight feet wide from tip to tip. The eyes have two palm-sized rubies inserted.
- ◆ 4 temples
 - Nemeton i Lugh. Celtic
 - Features the Spear of Assal (Gáe Assail.) with the incantation "Ibar (Yew)" made the cast always hit its mark, and "Athibar (Re-Yew)" caused the spear to return.
 - Hof af Odin. Norse
 - The temple is actually a working brewery. óðins mjöður (Odin's Mead). All of the ingredients are produced on the grounds of the estate, the bees to make the honey, the well from which water is drawn, and all the fruits, spices, grains, and hops used in the guarded recipe. The mead is for sale to the public through a mead hall operated by Hinir Aberandi Prestar, “the tipsy priests”. The profits keep the brewery operating.

- Templum Diana
 - This temple is home to the Fidus Luna Canibus (“loyal moon hounds”), a pack of pure bred Laconians who are said to be directly descended from one of the goddess’ first hunting dogs. The dogs exist as a living relic in honor of Diana
- Templum Venus
 - A sacred rose garden exists here in the central garden featuring a bush said to have been planted by the goddess herself when she first arrived in Mythika. The garden was built around the bush. The temple was erected to protect the garden.

→ Resources

◆ Access

- Falerii Novi lies on the Via Summus Laks (The High Road) with Centaurus to the south, Pixithos across the Beathe River to the east, Torbergs to its west, and Blekgurd to the north.
- It sits in a high level valley in the Zephyr Mountain range and is a welcome sight for rest and safety from the treacherous terrain.

◆ Water

- Water is supplied by numerous sources. With Lake Lethe nearby and fed by numerous natural springs in the surrounding mountains, and four wells inside the town limits, Falerii Novi has no problem irrigating crops, tending to livestock, or pulling sustenance from under the surfaces.

◆ Food

- Basic crops are grown in the limited arable ground, but enough to suffice the demand of the residents and travelers. Grains (wheat and corn) and tubers majorly. To a lesser extent olives, legumes, and leafy greens.
- Typical animals for hunting in higher elevations are big horn sheep, mountain goats, mule deer, elk, and pronghorns are plentiful. Typical livestock are pigs, goats, sheep, and in lesser numbers, cattle.

◆ Building materials

- Timber
 - Most of the timber processed around Falerii Novi is white pine, firs, and birch.
- Clay
 - Rarely used outside of bushcraft shelters for construction. Harvested in some spots along the lake for crafting earthenware by local artisans.
- Stone
 - Two quarries operate in the area that produce limestone, granite, basalt, quartz and slate

◆ Metals/Minerals

- There are two dedicated copper mines, one for iron, another for tin, and two more for coal all operated by one Ad Plutonis Gloriam Mining Company (for Pluto's Glory)
- Alloys: The ore from those mines supply the forges around Falerii Novi which produce steel and bronze
- Precious: APG Mining Co. also operate one gold mine and two silver mines in the region.

◆ Tradeables

- Ore, steel, bronze, and stone are FN's major exports. With those things flowing out, cash and whatever is desired flows in.

◆ Workers

- Roughly 2,584 of Falerii Novi's citizens are either employed or able to be employed. Most are unskilled miners and or prospectors.

◆ Magiks

- Falerii Novian bronze is exceptionally receptive to charms and enchantments. The reason is not understood.

→ Defenses

◆ Level: Beta

- ◆ The surrounding mountains discourage any access outside of the major roadways. These are natural chokepoints where FN's military concentrates its presence with fortified gates and towers with multiple portcullis'. The mountains serve as an adequate perimeter wall. Mounted patrols are frequent on all roads.

Guildmaster Mythika Adventurer's Guild Guildmaster is Aife Muirenn
(“AYF” “MURE-n”)

Halo adventurer!

Your Guildmaster has an exciting career opportunity for you! Upon the numerous complaints to the Towne Kouncil, you are hereby contracted to dispatch an angry Treant who has all but shut down the local woodcutting industry. I personally have neither heard of nor seen such a thing, but after extensive research, I have unearthed that treants are awakened trees that dwell in ancient forests. Although treants prefer to while away the days, months, and years in quiet contemplation, they fiercely protect their woodland demesnes from outside threats. So go find this thing and make kindling of it would's't thou? Upon evidence of its eradication, there are 25 gold pieces in your name held in the town's treasury.

Sincerely,

A

The Village Bokwurm

Prop: Zacer Fleetamar, halfling male

- 'The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Kingdom' - A book with not entirely inaccurate advice on 'how to see the kingdom on less than 30 copper pieces a day'. The very first page contains only the words 'Don't Panic' printed in large, friendly letters. 10 gp
- 'Incredible Creatures and How to Kill Them' - Details weaknesses monsters are known to have. It is part of a five-volume set; the first volume is for beginners (level 1-4), the second for the somewhat experienced (level 5-8) and so on. 50 gp

- Chapter 14 deals with Treants, quote:

[REDACTED]

- Want the information? Buy the book! This ain't no library! (Go talk to Coach)

- Magic for Dummies' - Explains what magic is and how it works in the style of '___ for Dummies' books. Does not teach one how to cast spells. 3 gp
- Wish It, Want It, Screw It' - detailed accounts of times the Wish spell backfired horribly. 9 gp
- So Long, and Thanks for All the Ale' - The story of Tarvish the dwarf, who had unpaid bar tabs worth a total of 10,000 gold all across the country before being arrested 16 gp
- Flumphs; the Pleasant Surprises of the Underdark' - A journal accounting some time that a researcher spent living with a cloister of flumphs. The author documented at least once every day for a month 12 gp
- Taming the Beast' - A perfect book for beginner beastmasters. Gives tips and tricks on how to win over wild creatures of all kinds. It starts with tiny creatures like frogs and crabs, followed by small creatures like eagles and fire beetles, medium creatures like giant badgers and giant frogs, large creatures like owlbears and bullettes, and finishes with huge creatures like elephants and some dinosaurs. 2 gp
