Cookie Policy

Hi, users! Welcome!

Rayls Group (referred to as " Rayls" or “us”), is the controller and responsible for processing your Personal Data.

This Cookie Policy guides your use of both the Landing Page available at www.rayls.com and our main Rayls infrastructure, which is only available to registered customers. Some of the provisions of this Policy may apply only to the Rayls infrastructure, and not to the Landing Page and the other way around.

Please note that this Cookie Policy is a complement to our Privacy Policy. In the Privacy Policy, you will find more detailed information about the concepts we use, and you will fully understand how we collect, use and protect your personal data, as well as being aware of your rights related to this data.

What are cookies?

A cookie is like a small file containing letters and numbers that we store in your browser or on the hard drive of your device used to access our Website.

es that are strictly necessary	are essential for the full functioning of our website. This es, for example, cookies that enable you to access secure and use our services. er words, these activities classified as strictly necessary are y linked to the essential functionality of our service. Without users are unable to browse our website or perform their actions.

ical or performance cookies	gh these cookies, we can recognize and count the number tors, understand which parts of the website users explore often and even record information about the website's mance. In addition, these cookies allow us to understand our website works, ensuring, for example, that users can find what they are looking for.
Functionality Cookies	cookies allow us to recognize you when you return to our te. This enables us to remember your preferences, such as details, region or language, so that you don't have to enter each time you visit.
Targeting cookies	cookies record your visit to our website, including the you visit and the links to them. These cookies are specially ned to collect information from you in order to display ads on related topics of interest. We may share this information ird parties to fulfill this purpose.

Our website uses cookies to identify you from other users. This identification helps us to make your browsing experience on our website more enjoyable and enables us to make improvements to our website.

Cookies can be installed either directly by the websites visited by the user or by third parties related to the Website. Although cookies do not need to be enabled to access the Website, disabling them may limit the use of certain services or prevent the full functionality of the Website as it might not be possible to run certain functions or processes.

What types of cookies we use?

We may use different types of cookies. Below are the categories and why we use them:

Our Website uses necessary cookies, and the legal basis for their collection is our legitimate interest (e.g. for setting a cookie that helps ensure that the content of a page on our Website loads quickly and effectively) or legal obligations (e.g. for setting a cookie that is essential to comply with the security requirements in connection with our services). Other cookies may be used as above with your consent.

The table below explains the cookies we use and why:

https://www.rayls.com/

			/Expiry
on		ry: Determines whether the user has accepted th onsent box
		al/Performance/Targeting/Functionality: Store an ge views	month 4 days
		al/Performance/ Targeting/Functionality: Calculat ession and campaign l track site usage for the website's analytics repor kie stores information anonymously and assigns nly generated number to recognise unique visito	month 4 days

Does Rayls share information with third parties using cookies?

No! We do not share the information collected by cookies with third parties. However, it is worth noting that third parties may use cookies over which we have no control. These third parties may include, for example, advertising networks and external service providers, such as web traffic analysis services. These third-party cookies are likely to be analytical, performance or targeting cookies.

When we make third-party content available on our Website, it is likely that cookies from these third parties will also be installed on your devices. We have no control over or responsibility for their use, purpose and operation. We therefore strongly recommend that you check the policy of these third parties for more information.

We also use Google Analytics to help us analyze the use of the website. Google Analytics generates statistical and other information about the use of the website by means of cookies, which are stored by users' browsers on their computers. The information generated relating to our website is used to create reports on the use of the website. Google stores this information and gives us access to it. Google's privacy policy is available at: https://policies.google.com/privacy.

You can choose not to use Google Analytics cookies by using a browser add-on, available at: https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout/.

How to manage and block cookies?

You can change your cookie preferences at any time by clicking on [•]. You can then adjust the available sliders to "On" or "Off", then clicking "Save and close". You may need to refresh your page for your settings to take effect.

Alternatively, most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings. Find out how to manage cookies on popular browsers:

- Google Chrome

- Microsoft Edge

- Mozilla Firefox

- Microsoft Internet Explorer

- Opera

- Apple Safari

To opt out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites, visit http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout.

When can this Policy be changed?

This Cookie Policy is subject to being updated if changes need to be made to the Processing of Personal Data. We therefore recommend that you revisit this Notice frequently so that you are aware of anything new we bring here!

Last updated: June 8th, 2025.