

Hey Omar,

As a former airline captain with 20,000 hours of flight time, an FAA Certified Flight Instructor, and who has been actively teaching in various piston aircraft since 2002, you are clearly constantly striving for the top, no matter in what area.

And I have an idea specifically for you to make you stand out from other pilots on YT, like "PilotDan" and "Flight Today".

Look, when selling such a high-ticket and high-cost product, in this case, your "7 Month Airline Pilot Program", your description has to be the most persuasive and influencing out of all your competitors, this is what will take your program sales to the next level.

I wrote you the beginning of your flight program description, so you will see what I'm capable of.

What are your thoughts on this description?

Enjoy your Sunday,

Orion Skura

Hey Omar,

As a former airline captain with 20,000 hours of flight time, an FAA Certified Flight Instructor, and a very helpful guy to many upcoming young pilots, it is very clear that you

I have crafted a unique method for you to influence your readers in a stronger way than other pilots on YT, like "PilotDan" and "Flight Today".

When selling a high-cost product, in this case, your "7 Month Airline Pilot Program", your program description has to be the most convincing out of all your competitors.

As a result, your course sales will increase accordingly.

I have revised a section of your flight program description, utilizing the influencing method I mentioned, which I would refer to as "Precision targeting."

Do you see how this type of unique writing style will set you apart from other pilots?

Best regards,

Orion Skura