AAMC PREview Exam

AAMC PREview Exam: “The AAMC PREview™ professional readiness exam (formerly known as the AAMC Situational Judgment Test), was developed and is administered by the AAMC. It is a standardized exam designed to assess examinees’ understanding of effective pre-professional behavior across eight core competencies for entering medical

Multiple Mini-Interview (MMI)

The MMI is an interview format where you are given a scenario/question and a predetermined amount of time to answer. These questions are typically ethical scenarios such as: “You are counseling a parent who states she will be “sneaking” some of her child’s Ritalin for herself. How will you handle the situation?”

KIRA Interview

The Kira Talent Video Interview is a recent concept and is a highly convenient way of interviewing applicants. The 3-6 question interview not only allows you some time to prepare, but also allows you to have practice sessions before going ahead with the actual recorded interview. The interview questions assess factors such as leadership potential, communication skills, comprehension, drive etc. All that is required is a computer with a webcam and microphone or a phone with internet access.

CASP'er

The CASP'er (Computer-Based Assessment for Sampling Personal Characteristics) is a video based, situational judgement test done on a computer. It lasts approximately 90 minutes to complete and assesses applicants on personal competencies and attributes.

SnapShot, and Duet

SnapShot: A 10-15 minute, video based response tool (one-way). 3 questions are given for you to answer and you have 2 minutes for each response.

Duet: An assessment to show what you value in medical school compared to what the program has to offer. A “matching” assessment of sorts to see how your preferences align with the mission, values, goals, etc. of the programs you are applying to.
