For reading this week I read: Treaty of waitangi and the Deadly flu of 1918

Text 1:

Text 2:

Aim to complete as many of these 3 boxes as you can, the minimum we expect is 1 completed :) What is written below is the minimum please feel free to write more.

My thinking:

Make connections between and across at least two texts and general knowledge to expand meaning and pose questions

The new learnings I now from Text 1: The British were lying to the Moari saying that they were going to look after the land but they did not and they wanted to take some of the land. The Moari were also worried about other countries Like France taking over New Zealand and not looking after their land and stealing it.

The New learnings I now have from Text 2 - I did not know that it could spread so quickly and I did not know that if the flu comes again the immune system will recognize it and will fight back better. I also did not know that there were 3 types of the flu that infect people.

2 Questions I have are

Text 1 - Why did the british not take care of the Moari 's land?

Text 2 - How did the virus become a thing and when?

Use prior knowledge to connect to at least two texts

The prior knowledge I had for Text 1 was:

• The British were lying to the Moari saying that they were going to look after the land but they did not and they wanted to take some of the land

• After the British did not take care of the land the Moari did n't really trust them and there were lots of wars too.

The prior knowledge I had for Text 2 was:

- I did not know anything about this article until I read this book.

Make connections between at least two texts and own life experiences

2 things that I could relate to from my own life experience in Text 1 was:

- Some people do not take care of their land and have wars. It was like the british did not take care of the Moari's land

2 things that I could relate to from my own life experience in Text 2 was:

When one person gets sick and goes over to see other people they get sick to and then it spreads.
 And that is why we stay home and do not go near people because we need to stay saff and you don't know if other people have it or not.
