Westminster Larger Catechism

Q. 95. How does the moral law apply to all human beings?

A. The moral law reveals the holy nature and will of God to all humans¹ and obliges them to live by it.² It also reveals to them the sinful pollution of their nature, hearts, and lives, which shows them they are unable to keep it.³ The moral law also humbles human beings with the recognition of their sinfulness and misery⁴ and thereby gives them a better awareness of their need for Christ⁵ and for the perfection of his obedience.⁶

1. Lv 11.44–45, 20.7–8, Rom 7.12.

2. Mi 6.8, Jas 2.10–11, Lk 10.26, 28, 37.

3. Ps 19.11–12, Rom 3.20, 7.7.

4. Rom 3.9, 23, 7.9, 13.

5. Gal 3.21–22.

6. Rom 10.4.

Q. 96. How does the moral law apply particularly to the unsaved?

A. The moral law awakens the consciences of the unsaved to flee from the coming wrath¹ and so drives them to Christ.² But, if they continue in their unsaved and sinful condition, the law has left them without excuse³ and under its curse.⁴

1. 1 Tm 1.9–10, Rom 7.9.

2. Gal 3.24.

3. Rom 1.20, 2.15.

4. Gal 3.10.

Q. 97. How does the moral law apply specifically to the saved?

A. Although those who are saved and believe in Christ are freed from the moral law as a covenant of works,¹ so that they are neither justified² nor condemned³ by it, nonetheless, in addition to the general applicability of the moral law to all humans, it specifically shows believers how much they owe to Christ for fulfilling it and for enduring its curse in their place and for their good.⁴ This recognition spurs believers on to a greater thankfulness,⁵ so that they try all the harder to observe the law as their personal standard for living.⁶

1. Rom 6.14, 7.4, 6, Gal 4.4–5.

2. Rom 3.20.

3. Gal 5.23, Rom 8.1, 34.

4. Rom 7.24–25, Gal 3.13–14, Rom 8.3–4, 2 Cor 5.21.

5. Lk 1.68–69, 74–75, Col 1.12–14.

6. Rom 7.22, 12.2, Ti 2.11–14.
