 	Background: My on-line teaching Ikebana career almost never happened till 2020, a year that challenged us to change our way of teaching and learning. For last 10, I have plunged into intensive training in Ikenobo school with an Asst. Prof. Certificate . I travelled extensively in regions of North America, Kyoto, and Taiwan to research and network with Ikebana associates. Teaching Goals: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To teach Ikebana techniques within the content of Japanese culture. 2. To collaborate with other Ikebana teachers and broaden students' experience besides Ikenobo. 3. To design abbreviated curriculum for people who have less flexible schedules. 4. To advocate Ikebana to all levels of students in America. 5. To accept 3 more new students and allocate 10 more hours each week in 2021. Teaching Style <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Offer small group On-line courses via zoom twice a month. 2. Present lectures and hands-on workshop to large group 3. Offer clinic for Ikenobo styles only and in-depth critics. 4. Assist each student to take ownership from design and build his profile. Focus on Ikenobo school "Rules and Techniques".
