

Where are they now? They are beginner traders, they lose more than they win.

Where do they want to go? They want financial freedom without risking anything. They wanna buy luxurious items, retire their parents, and make them happy.

Roadblocks? They're trading with price analysis and some indicators but don't know that they also can build a profitable system by accumulating these raw analyses. Awareness is their roadblock and they lose more trades than they should.

Solution? They should build systems for winning trades. They need guidance on how to create their systems + they need a community/team where they can discuss more profitable ways to win.

Who are you talking to? Beginner traders who have low funds but want to earn more.

They are 18-30 and have an interest in doing something other than studying in college. They execute trades but lose more than they win, and need some guidance on how to perform well in the market. What do I want them to do? My client is offering a service of systems building and analysing the market to spot the best trades possible. And they will get access to a premium community where all traders discuss building their new systems and find ways of winning.

What must they experience inside of my copy? They should feel the desire to have a system for their trades. They should understand their roadblocks and solutions.

Awareness? They are most likely not aware of this option. They think they can only win by using some chart patterns and indicators.

If Sophistication? No. If they are, I'll share some testimonials from client's customers to build trust.

SL: Let's plan a heist in the crypto market...

Mastermind(Professor) in the money heist season spent five years planning the heist before executing it.

And you think people in the market are waiting for you, leaving their money on the table?
If you're not prepared you're not gonna get anything home.

You have to plan every heist before executing it for profit or you'll lose whatever you have.

Make sense?

So, how can you plan when everyone is planning against you?

Imagine this - You have a pistol and a machine gun, which one will you choose for defending yourself against a killer gang, who is running behind you just to knock you down?

Yeah, of course. A machine gun is far better than a pistol when fighting with gangs.

"This person is a fool. How I can use a machine gun in the crypto market?"

No, I'm not.

Systems are your machine guns, and price analysis is your pistol.

Back to the question(So, how can you plan when everyone is planning against you?)...

That's where we come in. We plan with you, for you. We win with you, for you. We're a community, where we build new systems aka machine guns for our junior traders to win in their heist.

Here are some of our members showing their balances.

<testimonials>

The market is unpredictable, so should you?

A community where you'll get access to fellow traders and investors, winning the market and creating their systems, waiting for you.

Get instant access to your profits.

Plan with us,

Mehmet

PS: Solo Wolf wins if he fights against an individual. But if there are millions, he needs a team. We're your team...

<Your gang is waiting>