

Transcript for When Magic Ends Our Story trailer.

T: This has to be a small ending. This has to just be a small ending. If the stars are still here, if the stones are still here.

RR: Stay near, small dreams, while I count the ways I love you. Adoration louder than the screams as I trace your gentle face. Stay clear of small streams for they churn to hold and kiss you. And if I sing from this high place, will you heed my heart and stay?

OG: You know, we can still try until the end is the end! There is no reason to say goodbye yet!

M: I think there's kind of a line that I never cross where I have a little stump that I hide in to watch them go, and I just hold up one of my beetle friends so they can see too.

D: With her little stumpy, almost mitten like hands, uh, she's like furiously trying to make a flower crown.

OG: And do you expect it to end like everyone else? Hmm?
