Home educated children are permitted to participate in sports and other activities in their district of residence. Ohio law allows home educated students the opportunity to participate in extracurricular activities in public schools. An “extracurricular activity” is a pupil activity program that is run by a school or school district and is not included in a graded course of study. Activities include any offered at the district school that your child would attend if enrolled in the public school district where the family resides. More information is available in ORC Section 3313.5312. If your school district does not offer a particular activity, then your child may request to participate in another district’s program. The superintendent of the other school district may choose to allow your child to participate as an out-of-district student. Note: Home educated students must meet the same non-academic and financial requirements as any other student participating in the activity. Fees and ability in sports, where there are cuts, apply.
