So my name is Anthony Jinman, and I'm a Polar Explorer, Adventurer and Educator.

I've always been fascinated with travel. So the world is an incredible place. And I love travelling the world, going to different environments and seeing new, exciting things.

Over the past 15 to 20 years, I've travelled lots to the Arctic and to Antarctica.

In fact, I was at twelve in Britain to ski to the geographic North Pole, which is the very top of the world and then skied solo, so on my own, to the very bottom of the world, the geographic South Pole.
