I. INTRODUCTION

Background of the Study

Statement of the Problems (EMBA) / Objectives of the Study (MPA)

Significance of the Study

Conceptual Framework

Hypothesis/ Assumption of the Study

(In this section, present the background of the study, highlighting the research gaps, scope and delimitation, and relevant theories (if any), as well as related literature and studies. Conclude this part by stating the general objective of the paper. This section should be written continuously, in double spacing, and should comprise about two to four pages.)

II. METHODOLOGY

(This section should include a continuous discussion of the study's method, research design, instrument, project population, data treatment and procedures, and ethical considerations (if applicable), without dividing the content into themes)

III. RESULTS (Should be presented based on items from SOP)

(Results)

Synthesis

(In the results section, present each statement of the problem/objectives of the study as a thematic statement, followed by the corresponding table and a discussion of the result. After presenting all the results, include a synthesis, which serves as a summation of all the findings; no citations should be included in this part.)

IV. DISCUSSION

(Discussion)

Conclusions

Recommendation

(In the discussion section, you should analyze the results and support your analysis with relevant and current studies, both local and international. In conclusion, present only one paragraph without citations or supporting studies; this part should be written in your own words and must address the hypothesis or assumption, if any. The recommendation should follow in paragraph form, highlighting the implications of your study.)

The total number of pages from the Introduction to the Recommendation should range from 30 to 40 pages, written in double spacing; text in the table is single space.
