

Predator Type

Carnivor: Wits + Medicine. Hannibal Lector. Jeffrey Dahmer. Armin Miewes. These are fictional and real cannibals, and they are nothing compared to the vile monsters that are Kindred who devour flesh. These vampires must eat flesh in order to consume blood. And they must eat a lot to sate their hunger. Perhaps they sneak into hospitals looking to steal organs, masquerading as a surgeon. Perhaps they lure victims to their own personal abattoir, where they carefully carve their victims up into select cuts, frozen for later consumption. Or maybe they are just a fucking animal, chasing people down in order to rend them apart in a glorious mess of gore.

- Add a speciality: Medicine (surgery) or Survival (hunting)
- Gain one dot in Protean or Fortitude or Blood Sorcery (Tremere only)
- Gain the 3 dots in Haven, and Iron Gullet.
- Gain the Organovore Flaw. Lose a dot of Humanity.

Such a vampire is going to quickly become a target for the SI, or the Camarilla if it becomes clear that their particular means of feeding risks the masquerade. Stealing body parts from hospitals has all sorts of repercussions as rumours spread of an organ thief, or a rogue doctor. The urban wolf that roams the tunnels, preying on the homeless will soon grab the attention of police and SI agents, especially when some poor bum turns out to be the heroin addicted child of some politician.

These carnivorous vampires risk their Humanity every time they hunt and feed. They need to manage their urges or else they risk losing their self to the Beast, becoming nothing but a hungry revenant.

A clever hunter keeps a haven where they can feed with care, prepare their meals, and store fresh meat. Perhaps they hunt on just sinners. On criminals and thugs. Maybe such a hunter does this and treats the flesh they eat as if it was some form of holy communion, just a the bread is the body of Christ, so too is this flesh the body of Caine.

There is a bloodline, most vile and hated among the Kindred, called the Nagaraja. More than likely they follow some of the practices above.