What Services Does an Atlanta Chiropractic Center Offer?

Chiropractic centers are dedicated to the whole health of the body.

This includes preventive care, alternative remedies and an emphasis on wellness rather than the traditional medical doctor's emphasis on illness. Their belief is that we should focus on the aspect that we want to foster. At these centers, the emphasis is on the health and wellness that we all want to enhance.

Chiropractors believe that many illnesses are a result of misalignment of the spinal column which restricts blood and energy flow as well as constricted musculature and nervous system. Asthma, ADD, back pain, ear infections, fibromyalgia, as well as problems with digestive functioning and the immune system can all be helped with techniques performed at a chiropractic center.

Proper nutrition education, body posture, and relaxation techniques to enhance health are all incorporated into the wellness aspect of health care. These are also supportive of the science of ergonomics which relates to human engineering and promotes healthy devices and furnishings to enhance proper posture and body mechanics in the workplace.

Some people worry that if they start coming to such a place, they will have to keep up adjustments forever. This isn't true. Once the required adjustments have lined up the skeletal and nervous system, healing within one's body begins to occur and the treatments are no longer necessary.

Some people have been concerned that adjustments may hurt, but this isn't the case. Most patients report an unusual or slightly uncomfortable feeling, especially if it isn't something they've experienced before, but it isn't painful.

Many insurance companies are now paying for treatments received at chiropractic centers because it has been shown how effective they are in prevention of illness and are a natural treatment. Sometimes it is necessary for individuals to pay for their treatment up front and be reimbursed by their insurance company.

Some policies would like a physician's referral to recommend that the patient obtains chiropractic adjustments. It is wise to contact your insurance company before treatment in order to see what coverage they will allow and if they have a list of preferred providers that they recommend.
