

Night One: students of SLAM 3914

Night Two: produced by DMP

MISSION STATEMENT:

The Tulane Film Festival is an opportunity to celebrate students' films and provide a bridge for gaining a deeper understanding of the importance of film in New Orleans.

AUDIENCE AWARDS

1. Crawford Lemoine <clemoine1@tulane.edu>: He tied for the 4/20 - 5:30 PM program Audience Award for "Mackey & Gibbs." This prize is $150 and a Panavision swag bag (I realized I should send you all the details of what's in the bag! It's at my house but I'll catalog it this weekend).
2. Myles Ortiz-Green <mortizgreen@tulane.edu>: He tied for the 4/20 - 5:30 PM program Audience Award for "Eggs and Sassage." This prize is $150 and a consultation with an executive. You can let him know that I will reach out to him to discuss what might be most helpful. I did just confirm that he is a senior.
3. Annelise Sonders <aodders@tulane.edu>: She won for the 4/20 - 7:30 PM program Audience Award for "Serial Daters." This prize is $150 and two All-Film Passes to the 2022 New Orleans Film Festival. We will connect her with the Festival (I can do that).

GRAND JURY PRIZE

Cameron Woodle <cameronwoodle@gmail.com>

His film "I Am One of the People" won the Grand Jury Prize of $500. You should tell him that he was in competition with 19 other films and share more information about the juror who selected his film. Her name is Rashada Fortier (reference my earlier email to the class this week for bio information on her).

Grand Juror Rashada Fortier had to say re: why she selected this film:

"I was impressed by the craft of the film and the depth of the story. I also think this film is truly in accordance with the Festival's mission statement of showing how important film in New Orleans truly is and can be."
