

THE SNOWDEN Times

TOP STORY!

Earlier this week, Rory, Snowden times editor and cheif, went on a wood chopping journey. At first, it seemed a bit boring. But then, Rory helped make a pile so big, It's as tall as your house! Now, that is one of Rory's greatest hobbies. He loves being out in the woods, and hearing, seeing, and breathing nature! A task for today is to take a fresh walk in nature, and enjoy all of it. Thanks for reading!

Every few days, we here at the SNOWDEN times, will

Pick a random person to be the awesome person of the day! When the winner is picked, they will be put in the APOTD column, along with a drawing of them! They will also receive a reward plaque in honor of them. Will you become the APOTD? Turn the page to find out!

Joke of the day!

Did you hear about the guys who stole 1 calendar?

They each got 6 months.

Journal entry #1

Dear Journal,

I have been climbing this mountain for months. All of my food is gone, and all I have is a rickety tent and dead flashlight. I am halfway to the peak of the mountain, and have set up camp in the snow and harsh wind. It will be a long while before I reach the top. On the way up, all of the crew chickened out and left. I was hoping they called a rescue team to get me, but I've lost all hope. I've gotta sleep and get energy for tomorrow, so I'll see ya later, Journal.
