June 5, 2025; Broadway

Notes: Clear audio recorded from the front orchestra. There was a show stop about 9 minutes in right before Dear Old Shiz; it was announced before the show resumed that Christianne Tisdale would be performing the role of Madame Morrible. I'm pretty sure Christianne was in her normal track of the Midwife during No One Mourns the Wicked, but I'm unsure who swung on for the remainder of her ensemble track. The recording is edited seamlessly without the show stop, but I also included Act 1 with the stop for those interested (with the majority of the hold time edited out). Includes curtain call and payout music. Do not post on any platform (TikTok, Tumblr, YouTube, Reddit etc.)

Notes: Audio clips ripped from YouTube. Very minimal highlights of Gretel Scarlett as Nessarose!

According to comments, this was the understudy show where the principals fell sick so Gretel (who normally is the Witch's Mother) had to pull double duty by playing both the Mother and Nessarose!! Really good quality audio and possibly the only featuring Gretel in her understudy role!

Highlights include:

Dancing Through Life part 1 (Nessarose and Elphaba's scene together)

Dancing Through Life part 2 (Nessarose and Boq's scene at the Ozdust Ballroom)

Notes: Both covers on for the leading ladies and Geraldine Turner guest performing as Madame Morrible! At one point my phone fell on the floor while I was recording so if you hear a big thud during the first act, that's probably why. The audio picks up how much of a POWERHOUSE Zoe's voice is (her voice just fills the theatre and it's just chef's kiss) way better than the video does and also picks up a lot of other stuff such as the echo during the flying part of Defying Gravity.

Matinee

Notes: A lot of understudies on for this matinée! Adam Murphy who usually plays Doctor Dillamond is on for the Wizard. The show stops just before One Short Day due to technical issues and picks up a few lines beforehand (the kids next to me apparently said the name of Shakespeare's Scottish play). A lot of wild reactions from the audience especially during the catfight since a lot of school kids were in the audience and their chatter can be heard every now and then cause I was seated right next to some of them.

May 28, 2025; Second Brazilian Revival

Notes: Nicole's Nessarose debut, and she crushed it! she was so lovely in act one and delivered a phenomenal wicked witch of the east in act two. Tabatha sang Nicole's lines in NOMTW, since Mari was also covering the midwife track. Act one recorded from center orchestra and act two from the front row, includes cast board photo and videos of bows/playout.

Notes: Split-track-palooza. Act one recorded from the rear mezzanine and act two from second row orchestra, I sat near a child who can be heard speaking occasionally during act one, nothing too distracting, but sometimes happens during quieter scenes. Thadeu played Boq in act one but had to leave due to health issues, and Lucas took over the role for act two. Includes cast board photo and videos of some of the bows/playout

Matinee

Notes: A great show with Samantha back as an emergency cover for Glinda! There are some chatty folks next to me, but they aren't too disruptive (I hope). Includes partial curtain call video. Usual gist - you're free to trade and gift privately but do not post publicly and do not sell.

Matinée

Notes: Recorded from the front row of the dress circle. Clear audio. Includes a playbill shot, photos of the cast board and understudy board. Also includes a video of the curtain call. There was a show stop at the start of the scene where Elphaba and Glinda meet the Wizard, about 5 mins later there was an announcement that the show was continuing (included in the audio). Due to this act 1 is in 2 files. I started having some vocal tics towards the end of act 2, they shouldn't be audible, but just incase you hear any random humming, those are my tics. Please gift upon request.
