

It's 9 in the morning and it's time for your daily morning cup of news, Good morning viewers and welcome to The Morning's Tews. (Tea+news).

Gluabs bloomed in the National Postgraduate College, Lucknow yesterday on 9th August as Rajkumar Rao and Adarsh Gourav stepped into the institution for the promotion of their latest Netflix web series "Guns and Gulaab."

Felicitated by Principal Dr Devendra Kumar Singh, the RJs Prateek and Alok from Radio Mirchi asked some questions from the Bollywood stars. The NPGCians, fueled with enthusiasm, carried the posters of the upcoming film and if they weren't mesmerized by the sight of Rajkumar Rao then Adarsh Gaurav launching into a verse of "tu aashiqui hai ", flabbergasting the students. A few students shook some legs with the actors. The actor from the hostel days also shared some funny moments from Dehradun while Rao told us about how his parents had always stood by his side and also congratulated the college for its 50 years.
