The Gold-Miners

I met two gold-miners at the station. Unfortunately they knew nothing about my father. These gold-miners were somewhat strange: they looked very scared of something.

It turned out that every moonlit night a ghost bear came to the station, stood on its hind legs and waited for something. They were so exhausted that they did not want to stay at the station to support it.

Anticipation

I personally don't believe in ghosts. I have to find out what is going on here during the night.

Grow a harvest of Coffee x 20

Reward:

Though the night was moonlit, I didn't see any bear around.

In the middle of the night a big grizzly bear appeared at the moonlit glade. It rose on its hind legs and stood like that for more than an hour.

Khanbulat

I saw the bear had a collar and decided to go to Khanbulat to find out more about the night guest.

Make a little Fish or Porridge; you won't make it to Khanbulat without feed. X 50

Reward:

Go to Khanbulat

I was told that many years ago someone had befriended and domesticated a little bear cub that was left orphaned. The little fellow got really attached to people and continued to visit the station. It was strange that the prospectors didn't know this.

Come Back

It was time to go back to Mirages and think what to do with the bear. I decided to observe it one more time. There had to be a reason for it to come every night.

Get to Mirage

Reward:

Cook some Vegetable Stew in Darfoot x3

I was right: the bear was coming every night to join the company of wooden bear statues standing in the middle of the glade. I had to figure out what to do with these statues.

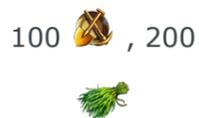

A Perfect Place

We have decided to take all the statues of bears away from here, so that the bear would gradually forget about them and stop imitating them.

Put the statue of a bear to the sled x 3

Reward:

Go to your home Station

Good thing Silent Shadow and Dull Echo gave me a hand, I wouldn't have made it without them. The gold-miners turned out no good: they are so afraid of the bear, that they refuse to touch the statues.

Once the statues were moved to another place, the bear stopped coming to the station.

Everything in Mirages was in shambles. Inuit were glazing the broken windows of the houses and cleaning up the station. I looked to the north and saw a huge column of smoke that rose above the volcano.

The Inuit said they saw strange columns of steam on the horizon, and the snow melted away there. They say that the severe and impassable north became accessible. The volcano melted the eternal frost of Dragonwing.

Exploration of the North

Reward:

Today I understood that the volcano gave me a perfect possibility to try to reach the glacier from the north. On the south the strong current of the Yukon prevents me from doing it.

Set out to Horton

Indim was marked on father's expedition map. First, it was necessary to stop by Horton and replenish the supplies of freshwater. So I headed towards the volcano.
