3.2 Published Course Level Minimum Qualifications

A general call for adjunct faculty is published annually by the EPSY Department and posted on the University's professional recruitment site. From the applicant pool, the Chair reviews each applicant's qualifications in relation to instructional needs. Next, the chair meets each candidate for an interview to determine whether the candidate is qualified to meet course-specific needs (e.g., training, credentialing or licensure, and relevant experience for School Counseling course demands).

School Counseling Program Annotated Faculty List Fall 2023

The University's position link is no longer active.

The Department of Educational Psychology is seeking an innovative and collaborative individual to join our diverse faculty team starting fall 2023. The tenure track full-time assistant-level faculty will teach classes in and coordinate our School Counseling Program. Our School Counseling Program is a unique, 3:1 program where our students receive 1) the Master's of Science in Counseling, 2) coursework and fieldwork training necessary to receive a California Pupil Personnel Services Credential in School Counseling, and 3) coursework and fieldwork necessary to be able to apply for an Associate Marriage and Family License (AMFT). The candidate will also be expected to engage in an active line of scholarship within their expertise. Our Department is committed to excellence in teaching and scholarship, student-centered approaches, and equity and diversity.
