UNCG Webinar Series, Fall 2021

UNCG has a variety of virtual webcasts or webinars on a variety of topics that can help faculty and graduate students with their research, teaching, and instructional technology. If you cannot come to the live session, we always record the webinar and send out the session link to all the sign ups. Be sure to sign up for all the sessions that interest you! Please email Samantha Harlow at slharlow@uncg.edu with questions about these UNCG webinar series.

UNCG Minerva's Academic Curriculum (MAC) Monday Webinar Series:

There is a new Fall 2021 webinar series on MAC (Minerva's Academic Curriculum), the new foundational learning program for UNCG. Alongside the official launch of the program this fall, UNCG is hosting a series of webinars for folks teaching or interested in teaching MAC courses. You'll receive an email on the morning of the webinar with the Zoom information to enter the webinar. Please sign up even if you cannot attend the webinar on the date and time. You'll receive an email with the recording even if you do not attend the webinar live.

- Monday, August 30th, 12pm - 12:40pm, MAC Virtual Launch Event
- Monday, September 20th, 12pm - 12:40pm, Proposing a MAC Course
- Monday, October 4th, 12pm - 12:40pm, Advising and MAC
- Monday, October 18th, 12pm - 12:40pm, Teaching in MAC: Diversity & Equity Competency
- Monday, November 1st, 12pm - 12:40pm, Teaching in MAC: Foundations Competency
- Monday, November 15th, 12pm - 12:40pm, Teaching in MAC: Health & Wellness Competency

MAC Webinars Sign Up

UNCG Libraries Research and Application Webinar Series:

UNCG Libraries presents a webinar series on "Research and Applications." This webinar series is for UNCG students, staff, faculty, instructors, and librarians. The series will cover topics on library resources and research tools. These webinars are all 30 minutes and are hosted in Zoom. Once participants sign up, they will get an email with a link to the session the day before the webinar.

Topics this year include:
- August 19th, 11:30am: "Step-by-step: Scaffolding information literacy skill development into any course" by Jenny Dale
- September 14th, 11:30am: "Help! Predatory journal! What do I do?" by Anna Craft
- October 14th, 11am: "What's New with JSTOR" by Maggie Murphy
- November 17th, 12pm: "Getting Started with GIS" by Jo Klein
- December: "Following Science from News Back to the Research" by Megan Carlton and Lea Leininger

Research & Application Webinars Sign Up

UNCG Online Learning & Innovation Webinar Series:

UNCG Faculty Support Network presents a webinar series on "Online Learning and Innovation." This webinar series is for UNCG faculty, instructors, librarians, graduate students, TAs, and staff interested in learning more about instructional technology and online learning at UNCG. Some of the topics included are online learning pedagogies, UNCG instructional technology tools (Canvas, Google, Box, etc) and more. These webinars are all 30 minutes and are hosted in Zoom. Once participants sign up, they will get an email with a link to the session the day before the webinar.

Topics this year:
- August 18th, 1pm "Anti-plagiarism instruction that works!: Plagiarism and Instruction" by Jenny Dale
- October 4th, 11am ""Building Instructor Presence in Canvas" by Audrey Bryk-Lee

Online Learning & Innovation Webinars Sign Up