

Dear UC Davis community,

The recent murder of George Floyd by the Minneapolis police was a horrific act of brutality. We recognize that Mr. Floyd's murder, while unique in its specific circumstances, is an all too common occurrence in this country and that it is a direct result of systemic and institutional racism. The Association for Women Geoscientist officers are saddened and outraged by this act and all of the ones that preceded it, and we recognize the ongoing trauma of systemic and institutional racism on Black people. We stand in solidarity with the Black Lives Matter movement. We would like to express our sympathy, support and solidarity with all of the Black geoscientists of our community and pledge to commit our actions and resources toward anti-racist causes.

The Association for Women Geoscientists UC Davis Chapter condemns descrimination, harassment, and violence in any form. Our club is dedicated to enhancing the quality of education for women in geoscience. We have reached out to the AWG National Organization President to express our support for the Black Lives Matter movement and to ask how they are supporting Black women geoscientists now, and always. As AWG UC Davis Student Chapter officers we have been discussing other action items we can take and we welcome any thoughts, feedback, or suggestions.

We encourage non-Black geoscientists to consider the ways to best leverage your own experience, privilege, and abilities in fighting racism. Following is a list of resources we've compiled to begin the conversation and to help you further your own understanding of systemic racism and the ways to combat it. The Earth and Planetary Sciences department and others have built additional lists. We encourage not only reading of the materials, but also reflecting, processing, and then acting on what you are reading.

Sincerely,

AWG UC Davis Student Chapter Officers

Elizabeth Grant - President

Rebecca Fildes - Vice President

Supratim Dey - Secretary

Alba M. Rodriguez Padilla - Treasurer

Veronica Padilla Vriesman - Communications Coordinator
