

End of Year Reflection

Instructions:

As we wrap up the school year, it's important to reflect on what we have learned and how we have grown. This assignment will help you think about the knowledge and skills you have gained in I&S this year. Please answer the following questions thoughtfully and thoroughly. Your reflections should be well-organized, detailed, and show deep thinking about your experiences and learning.

1. What is the most important thing you learned in I&S this year? Why do you think it is important?

2. Describe a project or activity that you enjoyed the most. What did you learn from it, and how did it help you understand the subject better?

3. Reflect on a topic or event that was particularly challenging for you. How did you overcome the challenge, and what strategies did you use to improve your understanding?

4. Choose a historical figure or event that we studied this year. Explain their significance and how their actions or the event impacted society then and now.

5. How has learning about different cultures and historical events changed your perspective on the world? Provide specific examples.

6. What research skills have you developed this year? Describe how you used these skills in a specific project or assignment.

7. Discuss how your writing and presentation skills have improved through I&S assignments. Provide an example of an assignment where you demonstrated these skills.

8. How can the knowledge and skills you gained in I&S this year help you in other subjects or areas of your life?

9. What goals do you have for next year in I&S? How will you work towards achieving these goals?

10. Reflect on your participation and engagement in I&S this year. How did you contribute to class discussions, group work, and other activities? What could you improve on for next year?

Submission Guidelines:
