

Hybrid Learning

In order to implement the health and safety guidelines which include the social distancing measure, we must reopen our schools with a reduced in-person student occupancy. After carefully considering multiple options, a Hybrid A-B-C schedule was developed. The student body will be divided into three cohorts which will accommodate siblings to be present on the same days. The A-B-C schedule will provide a continuous rotation. Scheduling has been established to provide for in-person days for students assigned to either the A-B-or C Group while the alternate two groups are learning remotely. Some special populations may require additional in-person support as outlined in their Individual Educational Plan.

Fulltime Remote Learning

The fulltime remote model will follow the same schedule as the hybrid model. It will include multiple opportunities for face-to-face instruction using Google Meet as a platform. All the students will follow their school's start/end times or assigned class meeting times when participating remotely. This model allows flexibility for transitioning between models based on building administration and superintendent approval.
