Hereby solemnly declare that:

1. The article titled “.....” is my original work, and it is neither copied nor reproduced from any previously existing publication.
2. This article has never been published, either in print or online, and has not been submitted simultaneously to any other journal or conference for publication.
3. I understand and fully comply with the ethical standards of scholarly publishing, including, but not limited to:
 - Respect for copyright and intellectual property;
 - Avoidance of plagiarism and self-plagiarism;
 - Proper citation and acknowledgment of all relevant sources and contributors.
4. I strongly reject any involvement in papermill activities, defined as the submission of fabricated or ghostwritten manuscripts that falsely claim originality. This manuscript is my own independent academic work, with all co-authors (if any) duly listed and acknowledged.
5. I take full responsibility for the content of this article and am prepared to accept all consequences—up to and including article retraction—should any violation of publishing ethics be identified.

This declaration is made truthfully, voluntarily, and without any external pressure or coercion from any party.
