Re: Remote Work Lesson Activities

In years past, we have been required to make up any days missed due to inclement weather [snow days, etc.]. This year just like last, we have been given the opportunity to work remotely for up to 5 days that we are out of school due to inclement weather. In order to do so, we must provide work for students to complete at home during the remote learning days.

In preparation for any inclement weather that our area may experience, our instructional support staff and classroom teachers have worked hard to create the attached choice board activities that students will complete ONLY on days that are designated in the weather announcement as remote learning days. These choice boards do not require technology. Each packet includes one math and one reading choice board with up to 8 days worth of activities in both subject areas. Copies of each activity listed on the choice boards are also included in the packet.

Please keep this packet in a safe place and ONLY have your students complete/return work following inclement weather days. Your student will be required to turn in any work completed when he/she returns to school in order to be counted present on the remote learning day(s). Since we have experienced tropical weather related inclement weather days in the past, we wanted to be proactive and send these packets home as soon as possible so that your student would be prepared if inclement weather interrupts our school year.

For clarification purposes, if school is closed due to tropical weather for 2 days, students would be required to complete 4 math and 4 reading activities listed on the choice boards and return on the following day in order to be counted present during the remote learning period.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact Huntsville Elementary at 336-427-3266.
