Abstract−Abstract is a brief summary of the research to help the reader quickly ascertain the research problem/objectives according to research needs. The abstract must be clear and informative, providing a statement for the research problem, research location, number of respondents, data analysis methods/techniques, as well as temporary conclusions/results of your research. Abstract length between 150 and 230 words. Avoid unusual references and abbreviations and define all symbols used in the abstract. Using keywords related to the research topic is recommended.

Keywords: Keyword1; Keyword2; Keyword3; Keyword4; Keyword5 (at least 5 words related to the contents of the research separated by semicolons)

Please choose an article title with a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 14 words needed to adequately describe the content. The introduction must describe the background of the research, research problems, at least 4 similar/related research studies (updated 5 years before) by raising differences in research, the purpose and urgency of why research should be carried out, the solutions offered to the problems encountered so as to bring out the state of the art from your research. The introduction must also include a statement of the contribution of the research results. In research articles, it is mandatory to have references/citations, reference models (Kusrini, 2007) and so on, it is MANDATORY to use the Mendeley/Endnote/Zotero citation tool in the American Psychological Association 6th Edition format (with a minimum number of 17-20 references and up to date 5 years before).

In the introduction it is forbidden to use points a, b, c and others. If there is, please write it in the form of a paragraph description. It is recommended for authors to use the following article structure: INTRODUCTION (min 700 words) – RESEARCH METHODS (min 500 words) – RESULTS AND DISCUSSION (min 1800 words) – CONCLUSION (min 200 words). The maximum article contains 10-15 pages.

2. RESEARCH METHODS

2.1 Basic Research Framework

The basic framework of the research describes the type of research, the number of respondents and the location of the research in brief, the research hypotheses and variables, as well as the analysis of the techniques/analytical methods used in the testing. In this section there is also an overview and explanation of the framework of thinking in conducting research. These components (MANDATORY IN THE ARTICLE).

It is better if there are figures and tables, it must be presented with the names of tables and figures accompanied by serial numbers as shown in Figure 1 and Table 1.

For LOGO, use good and high quality for the image used and include the image number in the description of the image. The formula uses the Formula Editor found in Microsoft Word. Formula numbering is made sequentially based on the order of the formulas contained in the article, and the writing is like (1).

3. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

This section describes the results of the study. Results should be presented clearly and concisely. Authors should explore the novelty or contribution of the research to the literature used. Present clearly the results of testing, analysis and discussion using primary, relevant and up-to-date references.

Figures and tables must be placed as close as possible to their reference points in the text and must be numbered sequentially as they appear in the text. All Figures and Tables must have a title (minimum 2 words) and must be referred to from within the description of the tables and figures. In this case it must be added and numbered sequentially in decimal numbers with descriptive information. Avoid colorful images.

This section contains the results and discussion of the results of the research, which can be made in advance of the research methodology. This section also represents explanations in the form of explanations, pictures, tables and others. The number of words in this section is around 1800 words min.

3.1 Discussion

Must have a discussion section that explains the discussion of the research results in relation to the hypotheses taken in the research. The discussion sub-section also compares with studies from similar research results used in the introductory section. References are also mandatory in this section.

4. CONCLUSION

The conclusion section contains the final results of the research, the limitations of the research and possible improvements in further research. The conclusion also contains answers to all the problems contained in the research. The contents of the conclusion may not be in the form of points, but in the form of paragraphs (1 paragraph). The number of words in this section is around 200 words min.
