PREVIOUSLY: While on a flight to Australia to search for a missing Mike, the aircraft crashes on an island. Jack attends to someone laying next to the main wreckage while Bubbles accidentally starts the turbine while looking for his sword and it explodes.

.....back with Jack a few minutes earlier.....

JACK: Is everyone ok? Does anybody need any help? I'm a doctor.

.....

JACK: No? Good. Let's see if we.....

The turbine suddenly starts up. Screaming louder and louder. Jack sees Hurley and Claire struggling away from the wreckage and the now active turbine but they're still far too close. Jack runs over to help them.

All three of them making quicker progress now and they just manage to get out of the way and back to the rest of the survivors when the turbine explodes behind them.

JACK: Phew, That was close. Nobody seems to have been hurt in the explosion either so that's lucky.

SAWYER: [sarcastically] Yeah, real lucky.

HURLEY: Yeah. What're we supposed to do for food? I'm hungry.

BOONE: We've only just had something to eat on the plane.

HURLEY: But that was a whole hour ago.

.....flashback.....

SCENE: A customer is being served in a Burger Bar with two employees behind the counter.

OLIVIER: It'll be just a minute.

Customer sits down to wait for her order.

JEN: So, what about that local football team?

OLIVIER: We have a local football team?

JEN: You know I don't know. Then again I don't think we exist outside of these flashbacks.

OLIVIER: Think we're just here to make the main cast look good then.

JEN: True, but what about our hopes and fears? Our dreams?

OLIVIER: Guess we have none.

JEN: That'll explain why we're working here.

Boone enters Burger Bar.

BOONE: Is this McMick's Burger Bar?

JEN: Nah, it's McMack's

BOONE: Oh...

Boone leaves Burger Bar. Olivier hands the burger and fries to the Customer.

OLIVIER: Here's your meal, sorry about your wait.

SARAH: My weight? I'll have you know I only have five meals a day.

.....elsewhere.....

SCENE: Sir Klaus is sat in a large armchair in a large room in front of a large open fire smoking his pipe. Man Servant Edgar comes running in.

MAN SERVANT EDGAR: Sir. Sir. It has finally arrived. The cage is here. The time will soon be upon us.

SIR KLAUS: Excellent. Sir Klaus is most pleased at this development for soon those vile creatures shall be getting what they are long overdue to receive. For too long have they evaded capture.

MAN SERVANT EDGAR: Man Servant Edgar swears this will not be for much longer. This time there will be no escape. I will see to it personally. Their being allowed to walk free offends me to the centre of my being and they must be stopped.

SIR KLAUS: Yes, very soon Sir Klaus and Edgar will do the Burgersworth and Steinhauer clans proud and before my dying breath we shall have rid the world of all Gavs once and for all.

.....back on the island.....

JACK: Does anyone know where we are? What island this is?

LOCKE: We should be able to find out if we can find the pilot and the cockpit, wherever that landed.

JACK: So no-one here knows where we are?

SAWER: Well ain't that swell? The only person who knows where we are and he ain't fucking here. He's off swanning about on the other side of the island for all we know. Just great.

SAYID: We'll have to send a search party out. Three or four of us to go look for him at least as we don't know what sort of whacky adventures we could get into searching for him.

JACK: Well I'll go. Fortunately, I've had experience with exploring and if the pilot needs any medical treatment I'll be able to help.

Suddenly something emerges from the jungle....
