Mario Keputa

Mario is a dedicated activist with a broad academic and professional background. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Political Science from the University of Tirana and a Master's degree in Regional Policy Studies, which included participation in the Erasmus+ program at the University of Pavia. Currently, Mario is pursuing a Master of Public Administration (MPA) with a focus on financial and economic policy at Cornell University, starting in August 2024.

Mario has experience in disability social policy implementation, election data analysis, public relations, and campaign election management. He serves as the President of the European Democracy Youth Network (EDYN) for 2024. A youth network that aims to counter polarization and to promote democracy in Europe. Additionally, he has participated in national and international forums and debates, contributing to discussions on youth participation in politics and governance. In his free time, Mario enjoys playing chess and listening to podcasts.
