

My name is scott

My character cannot jump high

My character does not care about other people's problems (mainly stated by the fact that I have H.R as my job)

He would rather be a mechanic

The backstory is that I was good at building rolling recliner chairs, then my dad mailed me into an office department and that's how I became hr.

My character is lazy

He tries to mindgame people, (like challenging death to hide and seek) but it fails about 99% of the time.

Generally not noticed by other characters and if he is its usually by Max stating how he doesn't like HR(as stated by max to cj "why would you make him head of hr sobs)

Solves arguments by using the implying method

Guy:scott why did you do this

Me:implying I did that

guy:I SAW YOU

Me :implying you can prove it to anyone else

Guy: I don't even care I'm walking away

Me : implying the next time I see you I'm not going to keep arguing

But then scott realised he lost one of his only friends

The end

(p.s i'm bad at doing this stuff)(as if you didn't already know this by looking at this)(i mean look at this)(is this just trash?)(idk lol)