Rogers Parents,

Frisco ISD frequently evolves to make sure parents are informed and can support their children's academic needs. Recently, parents have asked for a consistent way to access students' STAAR scores, grades, and to track attendance.

Home Access Center, commonly referred to as HAC, will soon have additional features to meet those needs and expand to K-3 students in the final nine weeks.

If you have children in fourth grade or above, you know that HAC is where you can locate your child's STAAR scores, grades, and attendance. This will stay the same and some of those features will expand to other grade levels. All elementary parents will continue to receive the report card via email at the end of each nine weeks.

In anticipation of the HAC update, parents should make sure they have created a Gateway account. Join The Gateway and access a set of FAQs in anticipation. If you have trouble accessing The Gateway, please contact GatewayHelp@friscoisd.org.

An email will be sent out the week after spring break to share when these changes go "live" and how the HAC update can benefit parents in supporting their child's academic success.

We look forward to continuing to provide our families with updated information about your learner's progress!

With appreciation,

Becca Penny
