Have you ever wondered what makes up a successful person? In view of this, many people believe talent, creativity and discipline to be the key to success. Others, however, argue that only money, right connections and luck can bring prosperity.

We agree that it is up to talented, creative and disciplined people to make good, but in a way. It seems to us that hard-work nourishes talent and lets it bear fruit. Moreover, we feel that team-work promotes creativity, as people inspire and motivate each other, and discipline is impossible without strong character and willpower. Our opinion can be proved by referring to Mikhail Vasilyevich Lomonosov's life. He is considered to be one of the most successful persons in Russia as he must have been versatile enough to make his presence felt in such spheres as Physics, Chemistry, Astronomy, Geography and Linguistics. Firstly, Mikhail Vasilyevich possessed a remarkable talent which might not have turned into genius and helped him to become successful without Lomonosov's strenuous work and A.S. Pushkin, perhaps, didn't call Mikhail Vasilyevich "our first Russian university". Secondly, Lomonosov can be described as a disciplined man because he kept himself within science bounds and had a strong determination to become useful for his country.

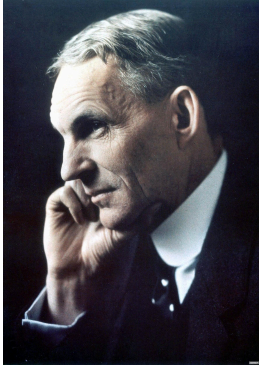

Opponents of this view say that a lot of money, some connections and good fortune will lead one to a prosperous and happy life. In particular, significant financial position is a good tool to get a better life. These people suppose that if you have enough money, you will be able "to buy" success.

We strongly disagree with this point of view. We tend to believe that success is not measured by the amount of money somebody earns. For instance, M.V. Lomonosov was the son of a poor fisherman. Having almost no money, he left his fatherland to study in Moscow. And in several years of diligent work this gifted and industrious man got a well-paid position of a chancellor in the Academy. However, Lomonosov's success is measured by the enormous contribution to the development of his country.

All in all, success is said to be many-sided: people quantify it in many different ways and on many different levels. But we fancy there must be only one secret of success: no man succeeds without talent, creativity and discipline.

Talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success.

It goes without saying that every person wants to achieve success in life. The definition of success is debatable as every person treats it individually. It's impossible to be successful without having certain traits of character. It's rather difficult to list them in order of priority because they all work together. We would like to point out the most important parts of success of a very prosperous businessman, Henry Ford.

In our opinion, Henry Ford has achieved great success due to such traits of character as creativity, discipline and talent. The combination of such unique abilities helped him to become one of the most successful entrepreneurs in the world. Firstly, being a creative personality, he introduced new ideas and technologies into the process of car production. More than that, he wasn't afraid to take risk. So, his most famous innovation is assembly-line technology. Secondly, Henry Ford was a talented leader. He skillfully managed his company and created great working conditions for his employees because he couldn't imagine the work of his factory without his engineers and even ordinary workers. So, he treated people with respect and understanding. This, it was Henry Ford, who introduced 8-hours working day and offered the highest salary in the USA for his workers. Moreover, he was the first businessman, who shared the profit of the company with his best workers. At the same time, he was a demanding person: strict self-discipline was a specific feature of his character, paid great attention to discipline at work. People, who abused alcohol and played card games couldn't get a job in his factory. People say, Henry Ford himself hasn't missed even one working day in his life. He followed the ideas of the so-called "welfare capitalism" of that time.

However, there is an opinion, that Henry Ford sacrificed his principles for the sake of the profit of his company. Notwithstanding his hatred for the ideas of Bolshevism in Russia, he established partnership with our country in order to raise the profit. Thus, he sacrificed his political views and even organized training courses for the specialists of the Gorki automobile plant. He has done it for the opportunities to sell his tractors and cars in Russia. What is more, Henry Ford shared Hitler's ideas before and at the beginning of the World War II. He gave financial support to the Hitler's army and supplied Germany with tanks and planes. Henry Ford was awarded by Adolf Hitler for it. Although, by the end of the war Ford realised his mistake and begged his pardon.

We can't fully agree with this point of view. It's possible to justify Ford's behaviour. Sharing nationalistic ideas, Henry Ford couldn't even imagine all the horror of the World War II. When he learnt about it, it had been too late. Every person has assets, that's why we should sometimes forgive his shortcomings.

In conclusion, we would like to say that long-life success is a hard work. People should develop talent and creativity. These traits of character, with self-discipline, will help to reach a success. Living in action, living in learning, living in mastering your skills will lead a person to his success.

What is a success? A success is a top, a goal, recognition. It's not easy to be a successful person. It demands strong character, will and hard work. And if a man is talented, creative and disciplined he has got more possibilities to become prosperous.

It's common knowledge that every person is born talented. We believe that it is necessary to develop a talent to succeed in different spheres of life. A talent is a spark which can be inflamed into a large fire. Talented people are able to bring something special into the world. Besides, together with their creativity they produce masterpieces which are appreciated, admired, and kept for centuries. Creative people see the world in a different way, they invent a lot of new, interesting, exciting things which cause great delight. In addition, we consider discipline to be an integral part of success. It also plays a key role in achieving a purpose. Many talented and creative people can not cope with a number of obstacles and give up their activity because of lack of discipline. Here is one of the principles of the outstanding political figure Margaret Thatcher: "Success is only possible with hard work and strong-willed efforts. Some people work to live. I live to work" [1]. From our point of view, she is an example of iron self-discipline which led to a huge success.

Frankly speaking, we entirely disagree with this opposing opinion. Firstly, nature helps a talented person to realize his ideas. Secondly, we can not rely on lucky and fortunate circumstances because they do not always accompany people.

To sum it up, we should say that success is based on "three pillars". They are talent, creativity and discipline. They presented the world with remarkable writers, painters, musicians, actors, scientists and politicians. We consider them to be great treasures of mankind in the history of civilization.

About what is success in life, puzzled many generations. But a common understanding of the issue did not come. After all, how many people, so many opinions. And they are all different. It depends on education, the level of knowledge, even the personal qualities of the person.

For some people, life success lies primarily in the material well-being. For others - completely different. They are alien to money problems. They are passionate about their work and find peace of mind in a completely different values. And it is also a kind of "success in life." In our view, it is enclosed in a set of moral satisfaction, peace of mind and material prosperity. Only when the combination of these benefits a person can feel happy and then his head is released from everyday worries, he does not have to think about the "daily bread". He has a desire to work, to implement good ideas.

But success in life at the same time as roulette: one lucky, others not. On the other hand, man is the creator of his own happiness. Everyone should be persistence, patience, and most importantly - the desire to achieve something in life.

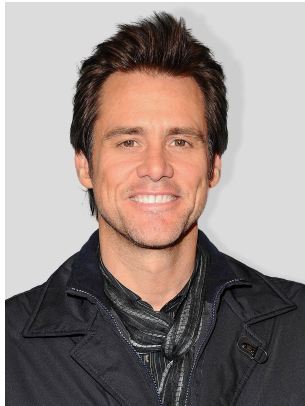

May be, from our point of view, many will disagree, perhaps, for their success in life - something completely different. But it is possible to answer one: "How many people, so many opinions."

Pushkin wrote a very easy and understandable language More thoughtful reader can find in his poems and works of hints, tips, cautions, and maybe even something else. This is the secret fascination of all works of AS Pushkin.

Pushkin was and still is the genius of Russian literature. And as I said about him Fyodor Glinka: "Geniuses do not die, they stay with us forever in our souls, in our hearts."

Talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success

It seems quite natural for people to dream of success. Private life, education, career, business are the spheres where people are eager to get the best results. But how to become prosperous? Which is the way to success?

In our opinion, this road is opened only for talented, creative and disciplined people who believe in their success. Firstly, these qualities help everybody to set a realistic goal, determine effective methods, choose the right direction. Talent has very little to do with success if you do nothing to develop yourself. It must be followed by concrete actions. Moreover, disciplined actions are good tools to increase the chances of success. For example, Jim Carrey, the Canadian- American actor, did not appear to do well at first. In spite of his failures he never gave in. The strong-willed man worked much, strongly encouraged himself not to despair and to keep striving towards his goal. Secondly, the way to success is long, full of complications. All above mentioned factors are of great help in passing all the tests on the way to success. Jim Carrey, the comedian, screenwriter, producer has come across countless obstacles to make a hit. Nowadays he makes use of his talent truly to reproduce his characters. As for the actor's creativity, he expresses it through his skill, artistry. As a result, Jim has received two Golden Globe Awards and is regarded as one of the biggest movie stars in Hollywood.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jO3lhCBKn3I>

However, some people consider hard work to be the only key to success. Intensive work can even substitute any talent, creativity. More than that, you are sure to get better chances to get prominent results and, consequently, to succeed in life.

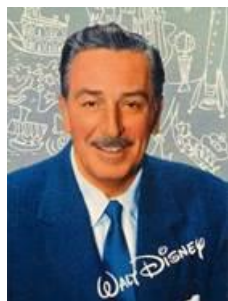

We disagree with this view, because in spite of a large amount of energy, efforts, time, which have been consumed by the endless work, many people fail to have effect. So they are bitterly disappointed, feel like giving up and get convinced of a lucky chance as the main means of getting results. Then, intensive work can do much harm to their health. They become tired, less productive. No doubt, such state is a big obstacle in any activity.

All in all, everybody has his own success formula. What you need to be successful you really have in yourself. You should only find it out, define what you lack, select the right line on your way. In fact, you are your own success maker.

Success means different things to different people. Some people think that if a person is talented he will succeed in life by all means. Others believe that hard work matters much in achieving success. But quite a lot of people don't know what they need to be successful.

We are strongly convinced that success is more than one thing. Talent, creativity and discipline are necessary for people to be a success. First of all, every person is born gifted. It is important to believe in it, to know what kind of aptitude you have (the earlier the better) and to develop your talent. If it happens that nobody sees the God's blessing on your forehead you must at least be sure what you want to do. Only then you will succeed. Another major factor is discipline. It is a very important thing. Without this aspect no work (it doesn't matter if it is hard or not) can be successful. Even the most talented person will never be successful if he or she is not disciplined. He can never get wonderful results. In addition to this, to make great things you should use your imagination and creativity. They say that to be creative a person should "machine gun apathy, stab laziness, bludgeon selfishness, bomb fear". You needn't think about your failures or problems but solve them.

Many people think that a natural ability to do something well makes a man talented, but others do not agree saying that the ability to use your imagination to produce new ideas that what makes a person really succesful and gifted.

So our teams opinion is that a talented man should posess the ability to control his own behaviour, so that he does what he is expected to do. Let's consider some pros and cons of it. On the one hand success includes discipline for the most part, because being lacking in discipline can cause simply breakdown in all fields. Most of us are brought up to accept discipline and to discipline ourselves. To make more out of what you are doing may require a tremendous amount of creative work within the individual discipline. But on the other hand i should say that having a talent for something is like making a difficult subject understandable and interesting. Moreover, creativity is also playing a great role as an integrative part of success.

To draw the conclusion, one can say that although talent and creativity play a great role forming success discipline is still the greatest part of it considering no one being successfull being lack in discipline.

Talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success

What is success? Nobody can definitely answer this question. If we ask 10 different people what success means for them, we'll get absolutely various answers, because everyone has their own view of success. So what is its formula? We believe there're some integrative parts of success: talent, creativity and discipline.

If you want to be successful in your life, the first thing you should do is to take the time to clarify the meaning of "success" for you. Never mind what it means to anyone else. When you determine it, set a clear goal and do your best to attain it. Remember you should always try to achieve perfection in what you do. We suppose the first thing that matters is discipline. Another issue is talent and obsession with your ideas. If you are really in on some case and never stop experimenting, you will surely become a successful person in future. You have to look steadily for new aspects of life, which can become interesting for you and don't notice negative emotions in your side. In our opinion, it just means to be a creative person.

You have to sort out the advice you get, listening to only your heart and mind, because nobody else knows what actually you are in. You are on your own unique way. Realizing this, you can get rid of the false sensation and be up for anything.

“Talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success”

It is common knowledge that the question of how to be successful has always aroused heated disputes. Our modern world is unimaginable and unthinkable without hard work at your aim, without creative thinking and may be the last, but not the least in the achievement of it is talent.

But on the other hand, there are many other ways to become a successful person. First of all, not everyone has natural talent that can lead to good results. A lot of people are simply lazy and they refuse to work hard. Furthermore, most people believe that only money and authority can lead to gorgeous achievements. To a certain extent it is right. May be...But neither very rich relatives or powerful authorities can accompany you from the cradle to grave. And nobody is so generous to put his own money into mediocrity people.

In conclusion, taking into account all the possible and necessary characteristics of a person who wants to be successful in life we dare assume that talent, creativity and discipline can only speed up or slow down the way to the best life. There is no formula how to be successful that suits to everybody. It is up to every person to choose the way he wants. Much information has to be learnt and the list of characteristics is different by different people. Only work! Work hard!

We live in a world where a lot of people are dreaming of becoming successful. Some of them believe if you are gifted you can receive everything in your life. Others think it is more valuable to be disciplined or creative. Everyone has his own opinion, his own formula of success. Can talent, creativity and discipline be the components of success? This is the question we need to answer.

It is hard to deny that all these things are necessary if you want to succeed. Our formula of success sounds like this: "Success is 99 per cent of work and 1 per cent of luck". Talent is like a brilliant which must be cut. Without cutting brilliant is ugly and useless. We are sure work is that cutting. Only work can open the way to be happy. For instance, Margaret Thatcher used to say: "I do not know anyone who has gotten to the top without hard work. That is the recipe. It will not always get you to the top, but it will get you pretty near". Talent must be developed and cultivated; that's done through discipline. Without discipline the appearance of talent can be illusion. A person with discipline can develop nearly any talent or skill. Discipline is what turns talent into success. To that extend, creativity is an integrative part of it. It is the act of turning new and imaginative ideas into reality. If you have ideas, but don't act on them, you are imaginative but not creative.

However, some people believe only in natural talent. They say if a person has brilliant genetic traits and is gifted he can get to the top without any difficulties. Because he can have creative ideas and suggest a decision to a very complicated problem as he is more intelligent. They are sure ordinary people have ordinary ways of thinking. No matter how hard they work. They are not able to make great discoveries or invent something.

Our team can't agree with this point of view. In everyday life your attitude to work, your personality is more important. Talent is not enough to succeed. Due to his discipline and persistence a person can overcome many difficulties, but doesn't give up. We know a lot of examples when a gifted child has lost his talents because of his idleness or a weak will.

All things considered, it seems to us you are not guilty if you are not gifted. If you are disciplined and hardworking you are able to develop your talents and become creative in a field you have chosen. You will be successful!

Everybody has a chance to be successful, but the points of departure to it are different for all of us. Moreover, to use this chance means to open the first element in the formula to success for oneself and to write one's own one. But there is something general for all persons in this formula, that is «I want», «I can» and «It is necessary».

Does one's success depend on talent and creativity? We think it does not. And what is more important talent or discipline? Discussing these questions we remember the words of famous German writer and thinker I.V.Goethe that a real talent consists of nine parts of hard working and one part of genius. The answers to these questions are not simple. In our point of view, discipline is more important than talent. On the one hand, following certain rules and procedures it is possible to achieve a lot if you were not even gifted by God. Besides, gifted people without creativity, discipline, hardworking, studying constantly, looking for new opportunities cannot convert their talent to anything which will be useful for a society. Unfortunately, such people turn into incomprehended geni and are lost spiritually. That's why success means getting your "buts" out of the way.

On the other hand, some people believe that talent and creativity are really important things to succeed nowadays. Though discipline is an integrative part of success but not in all spheres of life. For example, some people who inclined in art depend on the muse. However, the muse does not come on schedule, but discipline is can be achieved by training oneself for some time.

To sum up we would like to say that a lot of famous people are sure that they succeeded thanks to planning their steps to success and strict discipline. Nevertheless, they do not deny the idea that to be successful is a talent...

The Lord helps those who help themselves.

In our controversial world with lots of competition, the desire to be successful is strong. But is it enough to be born gifted or does success imply something else? The life of talented and successful people seems to be full of luck but we assume that all great achievements are gained by great efforts.

Our team believes that success involves talent, luck, hard work and discipline. There are millions of gifted people in the world, but only few of them end up being successful. It means that hard work is one of the most important elements of success. We suppose that people are able to achieve success being ungifted, but ambitious and extremely hard-working. Hard work implies improving your skills and getting practical experience. As a result, being experienced and knowledgeable, you become demanded and, consequently, successful. In addition, hard work reflects on your reputation in a positive way. You are considered to be reliable, disciplined and punctual. Thus, you are given an opportunity to achieve more. However, if you have talent, the process of succeeding will be much quicker and easier. Moreover, in some spheres like art, music or acting talent is definitely necessary.

According to other people's opinion, being gifted is enough to be successful. Evgeniy Evstigneev can be considered that kind of person. He did not try to be a celebrity. However, he became one of the most recognized actors in Russia. I.M. Smoktunovsky once said: "Evstigneev is a genius! He is the greatest actor I have known. I need six months for rehearsing a role, but Evstigneev can change into any character in an instant! ". And, indeed, he was called «The King of improvisation and acting ingenuity». <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nKyg84EmSvY>

Talking about this outstanding actor, we are proud that Evgeniy Evstigneev had thrived from our native land. His personality affected our understanding of success, which will undoubtedly help us in our future life.

How can you succeed in life? We often ask ourselves this question, but do not always find an answer. In general, what is it - success? Maybe it's just a fortune which doesn't depend on us and which can appear and disappear at any moment? Or is it still our work which combines talent, creativity and discipline?

As for our team, we believe that talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success. . We are sure that it is impossible to be the winner only due to your in-born gift.. Hard work and strict discipline may create miracles but if you are lazy, your talent won't develop and you will soon lose all your achievements. In order to succeed, you need to believe in yourself, set the goal and work hard. For example, a great English scientist Stephen William Hawking was always interested in science. If he didn't have a talent and creativity he wouldn't be able to discover new scientific phenomena, write science-fiction books which are interesting for children and adults. But if he wasn't very disciplined, he wouldn't cope with all difficulties on his way such as his physical disabilities.

Some people are sure that if a person really wants to achieve something and does his best for it, he is very disciplined and has a strong will-power, he will become successful. They believe that you can develop any talents with the help of discipline and a good luck.

To our mind, even if you do not have any talents you can succeed in many occupations only due to being disciplined but you can be just a “doer” of an action and you won't be able to create something new or special. You will never meet a successful musician or scientist who works hard but has no talent.

All things considered we can say that to achieve a success you should constantly develop your talent, not be afraid of difficulties and setbacks. Do not stop there, expand their horizons. And you should remember that success doesn't come to you, you come to it and this way is not always easy.

Success means differently for each person. For someone it is wealth and a career, for others – a comfortable house and happy family. What are the parts of success? It is not just wealth or recognition. Surely, success is the combination of talent, creativity and discipline. But it never comes easy, so it is necessary to achieve.

Vladimir Vladimirovich Putin is a person who has all parts of success: talent, creativity and discipline. Firstly, he has got a talent to determine the required goal and choose the right way to achieve it. Being the president of Russian Federation Putin is responsible for the welfare of the Russians. His goal is the prosperity of Russia. Since 2000 economic reforms have been carrying out in our country. In 2012 Russia entered World Trade Organization. Secondly, Putin's creativity is expressed in a way to cope with different problems. His national priority projects contribute to the economical and population growth, increased patriotism, the reduction of state foreign debt, the strengthening of international position. Thirdly, Putin has got a strict self-discipline. He can organize their working day effectively in order to make responsible decisions.

A lot of people are successful at the beginning of their career, but they need to «feed» their talent with hard work to develop themselves to reach new heights. Some people think that V.V. Putin should train their talents better and show more creativity in solving difficult problems. So, diplomatic relations with the United States require extraordinary solutions. And our companies should develop trade with European Union in the current circumstances.

In fact Vladimir Putin has defined new principles of cooperation with the United States. The base of modern relationships is built on mutual beneficial terms only. According to the current circumstances the trade is developing in various directions. Thanks to it our economy can reach the whole range of services around the world.

To sum up everyone will have a success if he has got a talent, creativity and discipline. Vladimir Vladimirovich Putin is the example of it. Success determines the lifestyle, personal development and way of thinking.

Actually, it's getting bored when here and there you're recommended to be successful but are there any perfect measurements of success. On the one hand they are wealth, prosperity, money possession, titles, degrees, status which are happen to be more visible. On the other hand they're true friends, recognition, understanding, self-respect, sacrificing love & memory of the next generations which' are supposed to be eternal values. The question arises, is it really possible to combine material & spiritual success? Is any process above the result? In any case we're strongly sure that material success & spiritual one need definite talents, continuous creation & hard discipline. That's what combines two kinds of progress, though everyone can choose his image of success.

We'll do our best to prove that spiritual successes make people happier, because it's everlasting. To a considerable extent it lays the foundation of love, self improvement, forgiveness, mercy & benevolence. In our opinion success can not be measured by money & status. Life of our hero, a well-known Russian actor Anatoly Solonitsyn made us come to this conclusion. Having watched the films with his participation & read his biography, we realized that his mission had been to find himself & to help people to live according to the laws of human beings. His cinema & theatre characters appeared to be his own life. If we were cinema critics we would advise everybody to watch such films as "Andrei Rublev", "Stalker", "The mirror" & other. A. Solonitsyn was shot in 47 films & got notable prizes, but his success is not associated with brilliant career & wealth. You see, he had been looking for himself & when he found his filmmaker Andrei Tarkovsky & his roles, he created fantastic images of Russian people who could not but touch every thoughtful person. Talent of soul, everlasting creation & hard discipline of mind led him more to spiritual success among spectators than to material one. We do remember the words of a tragic preacher Andrei Rublev: "People should be more often reminded that they are people!"

Nowadays many people consider material success to be the main goal. They say, if you can't earn money, you are stupid losers & failures. They burn their lives to save money but they forget that money gives bed but not sleep, amusements but not happiness, things but not creation, results but not success. They try to achieve a status of prosperous managers, businessmen & politicians by any means, losing their soul, families & friends.

That's why we can't fully agree that material possession is worth looking for the whole life. Sometimes it's so much fuss about nothing. One successful medical operation which has saved one life, one great role which has saved one stray soul overweight palaces, yachts, super cars & status of a successful person.

To cut a long story short, we still haven't found some perfect combination of material & spiritual success. Maybe, it's hardly possible (though we know some great Russian patrons of the arts such as Sawa Morozov). Frankly speaking, if it happened to choose between two kinds of being successful we would prefer... to make somebody happy! Finally, here is our favorite game in chainsword. Join us!

One issue that has caused lots of controversy over the years is success. There are those who believe in success but others deny its existence. But what makes success? What do we need for it? How to achieve success? And what is success?

There are some definitions of success.

-Success is attaining wealth or fame.

-Success is the fact of becoming rich or famous or of getting a high Social position.

In some definitions success is associated with fame, prosperity, wealth, triumph, money, power, respect a high. Social position. It is not surprising. We live in a material goods are the main things. In our opinion materialism is not a bad, point of our society. We live in a competitive world where success is important so people become more materialistic.

On the other hand materialistic people think that money is everything in the world and being rich is the only way of being successful. Us for us we do not think that money is the only way of being successful in life. We would like to support our point of view with an example. To begin with it cannot be denied that money is an essential part of our life. There are a lot of rich people, but not all of them are materialistic, for example. Bill Gates. He looks like an ordinary person. He likes fast food and casual clothes. But Bill Gates is not snobbish or ambitious. More than that he is a philanthropist who donates a lot of money to different organizations. They think that talent always helps to achieve success. Personally we strongly object to this statement. Some talented people had not known how to organize their work had not got a discipline had been very lazy and irresponsible. So they broke their career, did not achieve success. But personally we incline more to the opinion of the importance of discipline. We would like to say that discipline is an important condition of successful work.

To draw the conclusion it should be observed that so many people, so many opinions. "Real success comes in small portions everyday".(English proverb).

Success... What factors make up success? In fact, the components of success are talent, creativity and discipline. Some people suppose that not everyone is talented, but we think that everybody has a gift, you only have to get a move on. Creativity helps other people to see the outstanding talent of a person. Discipline influences success, only if you follow laws, life rules, you will be successful. Now we would like to express our point of view on the components of success.

In our opinion success is an enormous work, including talent, creative approach and discipline. If we exclude these 3 components, we will not make the grade. To begin with the fact that talent directs you in your activity, makes you absorbed in doing something that you like. Creativity makes this process faster and more interesting for you and society. Having a bee in your bonnet, you get a flight of fancy that results in reaching the top. Of course discipline is a way to be down to earth and keep your head down. In addition to this, even if you are a talented, creative and disciplined person, you will have to have an ambition to do something, to be successful. Otherwise these 3 components do not cope with your laziness and unwillingness. They say, where there is a will, there is a way.

Some people believe that success consists of 99% hard work and 1% of luck, however, they fail to understand that you must work hard, but you have to do sensible actions, and even sacrifice sometimes. Furthermore, they forget about creativity, thinking it will not help to make progress. It seems to us that original solutions of problems features an extraordinary person. Moreover, these people deny the importance of talent, but how they can think like that when gifted people obviously have a great chance to be successful.

In conclusion, we claim that talent, discipline and creativity are essential makings of being successful but only combined with hard work and some luck help to achieve a real success in life.

Talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success.

Success...What is it? There are a lot of explanations of this word. But every person understands it differently because they say: so many men, so many minds. Success may include various integrative parts. Very often people think talent, hard work, creativity, the amount of money they earn, love for their profession, good knowledge, self-confidence, and discipline to be integrative parts of success. But what is a real formula of success and how a man can become a successful person? We want to find out it speaking about our countryman I.M. Sechenov. How did he manage to become such a great man? Let's have a look at some facts of his life.

Though I.M. Sechenov was born into a large and poor family he received a decent primary education thanks to a clever and active mother. Besides, the family had strict discipline. Due to this, even in childhood, Ivan learned how to allocate and manage his time properly. "The best school of discipline is the family", - said Samuel Smiles. Moreover, the discipline is the predetermined order and if we observe it exactly, it will lead to savings of free time. Sechenov was an intelligent and curious person and always tried to learn something new to understand the mysteries of nature and the human body, psychology. He also was an honest, decent, fair and kind man he loved people. He always tried to live in harmony with himself and people around him. Availability of free time opened him the way to creativity. "Creativity is an activity that generates new values, ideas and the man himself as a creator." No doubt, Sechenov was a talented man, his talent is versatility of his hobbies and knowledge. He was well versed in the various fields of science, such as chemistry, biology, physics, medicine, psychology, philosophy. And of course, only gifted people have more chances to gain valuable things, because they are more intelligent and resourceful. As a result, Ivan Mikhailovich created a number of scientific works in these fields of science, the ideas of which are of great importance in the modern world nowadays. Thus, we see that the combination of discipline, creativity and talent have helped our countryman to achieve success in his life. And of course, a huge hard work had also played a big role. It is known that nothing in life can be achieved if you are lazy and passive.

On the other hand, many people think that the enough amount of money, determination and luck can make a person successful. Some of them think, for example, if you have money you have everything. But you know, there are a lot of things which we can't buy, no matter how much money we have. So, we can't agree with this formula of success completely, because all this can help in achieving success, but not to become successful. In conclusion, we would like to say that there are different formulas of success. Still, we fully agree that integrative parts of success are talent, creativity and discipline. As for us, we are proud of our great countryman and our native town.

Successful head master – successful school

Patriarch Kirill in a Christmas interview, said that “in our country there are many truly successful people - devotees from science, for which success is a new discovery, striking doctors, military who look in the death face. The consumer success is alien to these people, and it is necessary to tell about them to youth.”

So what is success? What does success consist of? What is true success?

People have always wondered about what success depends on. Some of them think that only a talented person can achieve great things. Others disagree; they believe self-discipline and hard work are the keys to success.

In our opinion success consists of a set of components: self-discipline, creativity, hard work, optimism. As some people say self-discipline determines the fate of people. We strongly agree with this statement, because self-discipline requires that we have done things today for results tomorrow. Self-discipline helps in the development of resilience and perseverance. It makes a person stronger. We think self-discipline helps to go to the goal faster and more reliable. So self-discipline is the step to success. Furthermore, many successful people say that creativity is a component of success and it is really true. If you don't have creativity then above all is waste.

There are people who are sure that only talented people can achieve success. It is absolutely wrong because each person has certain abilities which need to be developed constantly.

To sum up, we consider that the success is a result of actions, realization of talent, use of creative abilities, overcoming of a set of obstacles and including ourselves and achievement of goals. And the true success is success of team work in achievement of noble purposes for the benefit of society.

True success gives you the opportunity to grow and develop together with you to other people. We want to be successful people and live in the successful country.

«If person is moving confidently towards his dream and strive to live the kind of life which he has imagined, success will come to him in the most unusual hour and very unexpectedly» (Cyber Quatations). We can assume that the formula of success= talent+purposefulness+ hard work. We believe that every person is talented in his own way. But the talent should be developed to achieve your goals. Purposefulness is the beginning of hard work. Without it you never can reach the heights. If you know what the most important is to you, do not be afraid to spend much time as you need for this. Very often, the person realizes that all his life he lived only for work, but what is really important or interesting to him did not have time to be implemented.

« Behind every successful man there's a lot of unsuccessful years» Bob Brown once said. Success is something that usually takes a lot of effort to get, but is worth it in the end. As people reach new milestones in life, they learn from past experiences and change their habits. People grow, repent, and often times look for forgiveness.

For John Lennon his sense of purpose played a significant role. John Lennon wanted to succeed in music as well as his idol Elvis Presley. The first attempt in the success of the musician was to organise a concert in the park amateur group, but this concert was unsuccessful because young people did not have the necessary equipment. However, future rock singer did not give up and was soon formed a band «Beatles». After a while «The Legendary Four» become world- famous. Lennon brings people together. Thus, he managed to achieve success.

Most people believe that success can be achieved by having only talent, but the truth is that the hard work and purpose is also very important. Of course talent plays a very special role, however, without the other components you will not achieve your goals and do not reach the heights. Other words follow the motto «I want, I can, I have to».

Talent, creativity and discipline as integrative parts of success.

Success, what does it mean? A dictionary says that success is when you achieve what you want, when someone achieves a high position in their job, society. But what must we have to be successful? There are different opinions. Some people say that it is very important to have talent, creativity and discipline, someone thought that luck is more important and the others are sure that money solves all.

Our team thinks that success is a result of hard work, discipline, talent and creativity. Our celebrity, Steve Jobs, used to say: « Innovation distinguishes between a leader and a follower». This quote proves that creativity is needed to be successful. In the other interview he talks about the importance of hard work. Steve Jobs thinks that to be successful someone must be audacious, not afraid to make some mistakes and start over from beginning to end with a great diligence. These are qualities of discipline.

And the other example we have John Lennon. He did not have a professional education of music but he learned to play the instruments himself and became a virtuoso. Steve Jobs and John Lennon are examples of great talent, hardworking, cast-iron discipline during work and a lot of creativity because they present to us all a great heritage of their creation. But there is the other opinion. Some people think that money is more important than talent etc. Our team completely disagrees with them. It's because money doesn't help someone who can't and doesn't want to work hard, creative and who haven't a capability. Then some people say that only luck makes success. We do not completely agree with this thought. Luck is needed, of course, but talent, discipline and ability to do something are more important.

There are people who are talented, creative and achieve much in our life. Sometimes they are called successful. What is success? On the one hand a person cannot be successful in any occupation without being disciplined. It is obvious that it is impossible to be the winner only due to your inborn gift or talent. A lot of people are successful at the beginning, but they need to develop their talent with hard work constantly to reach new heights. To our mind, even if you do not have any talents you can succeed in many occupations only due to being disciplined. Hard work and strict discipline may create miracles. Of course, if you are talented it will be much easier for you, but if you are lazy, your talent will be buried and you will soon lose all your achievements. On the other hand some people think that success is a rather subjective concept. Everyone understands it in their own way. For someone to be successful means to have good career, promotion at work. For others it is happiness in the family. We used to think that success is something fleeting and passing quickly that is difficult to catch.

Talent, creativity and discipline are integrative parts of success. There are many successful people in the world. Some of them are very famous. Anyone has a unique path to it.

There is no doubt that every person would like to be successful in his or her life. What is success? How can a person get it? It's a controversial question. Some people think that only talent, creativity and discipline can lead to success. For others good luck and someone's support are the main ways to the top.

In our opinion, talent, creativity and discipline can make a person successful. First of all, gifted person has more chances to reach success, because if a person has no talent in a particular sphere it will be difficult to get good results, for instance, in art or music. More than that, to be successful in a professional field a person should be hardw

Success is always much spoken about. It is common knowledge that success is an achievement of a goal in any sphere, a positive result and a public recognition. It is difficult to say who can succeed in life and what success includes, because everyone's idea of success is different. Anyway, let us think about it.

It comes as no surprise that if a person is talented, creative and disciplined, he or she will be successful. You can be really clever and have many interesting ideas but if you lie on the sofa, complain and do not do anything, you will not succeed. Success never happens without one's hard work. And vice versa if you are a hard-worker but you cannot imagine and invent you will not be the best.

However, there are people who believe that it is enough to be a bit talented or only work hard. These people suppose that your personal qualities are not important, only money can help you in life, because rich people can easily become really popular and famous and get everything they want.

We might agree with it but only to some extent. Money can really help you. But we are sure that only those people, who know what they want, who have dreams and do something to make their dreams come true will achieve everything.

Summing it up, we can say that talent, creativity and discipline are three important parts of success. They cannot do without each other, they influence each other. Also we want to say, that perseverance and confidence are very important too. You must believe in yourself. Even if you have unforeseen luck, it is not because you are a lucky person. It is just because you have deserved it. Nothing happens just because it should happen. Your success fully depends on you.

orking and disciplined to achieve the top. If a person is industries his or her knowledge and skills can be improved easily. Besides, a disciplined person can organized his work properly. Moreover, responsibility and punctuality in gaining the success are important too. Mother Teresa was a hardworking person and this quality helped her become successful in her work.

However, there are a lot of people, who have another point of view on this issue. They consider that their fortune or rich relatives can easily solve all their problems and help them to be successful in life.

We cannot agree with this statement completely, because the supportive relatives of course can help to get success, but the feelings of personal achievements and respect of other people are more pleasant and satisfactory.

In conclusion, we would like to say that there are a big amount of factors that can help a person to be successful, but creativity, talent and discipline are the most important integrative parts of success.

A Typical Medic

We can hardly find a person who does not want to gain a success. But what does it depend on? Is it enough to be only talented, or creative or just disciplined? The question is in the proportion.

We strongly believe that to become successful you should possess 10% of talent, 40% of creativity and 50% of discipline. Firstly, people who are not gifted enough are more focused on education, on getting knowledge in different spheres. They work hard to make dreams come true. Secondly, they work according to their plans, do everything on time, they are disciplined. And both these things - strict discipline and hard work together with creativity - mean development, growth, advancement, improvement, evolution and steps forward. These people are considered to produce an incredible variety of scientific and technological discoveries. Boris Korolev, a famous Russian doctor, who is presented by us, was a very talented person but at the same time he was disciplined and creative. He lived according to a strict time-table. He got up at a certain time, did morning exercises even if it was a day off. He created a surgeon school and wrote a lot of scientific works.

However, there are a lot of people who believe only in talent and natural gift. Their proportion is the following – 95% of talent and only 3% of creativity and 2% of discipline. They are convinced that it is impossible to reach outstanding results without a talent. Our opponents are sure that talented people are more creative than conformed, they are able to break accepted standards and establish their own. For example, Michelangelo Buonarroti, a famous architect and artist, never passed his works on time; he did not have any time-table. But still now we get pleasure from his immortal masterpieces.

But Michelangelo Buonarroti is an exception. Most talented people are very self-reliant, arrogant and lazy. They are sure that their talent will open all the doors in this life. Nothing can be gained without hard work and strict discipline.

To sum up, we believe that people should constantly practice work and creativity following their plans. Only in this way we will be successful and open and develop our new talents.

Swinging majority of people are trying to become successful. But success is a subjective concept. First one thinks that you should be more disciplined and strict to yourself. The others think that you should be just talented enough to gain success.

The most important is to clearly understand what is success in its meaning. What are our first aims? Success is when you always go forward from aim to aim and you like it. No one can gain success forever. Success is instant. You achieved your aim — that is success. But after that there are a lot of new aims are standing on your way. And we'll use our discipline, strictness, talents and that's how we are going to become successful. All people are trying to find love, respect and happiness. That's why everyone would say: "That is for I need to be successful, that is my last aim." But here we are, feeling ourselves happy at the moment and this moment becomes our past. So we achieved something, but still we have where to move next. We look on things from new point of view and gaining new aims.

Common belief system says: "We should gain success using any methods; we should sacrifice a lot to achieve success. We also should be very ambitious. » However somebody who have worked all his life and gained head chiefs place in a small company will think that he is successful enough. Other people sacrifice their self-esteem and time by working in a place they don't like. But after all he'll be calling himself successful because he earned a lot of money.

But still we can't achieve our aim. A person is deceived, living in illusions world. He was chasing success to find happiness; he thought that achieving success in affairs will make him happy. But he only became rich and his hopes were ruined. Looks like all his efforts were vain. He thought that gaining respect and welfare will make him happy.

Success is not only luckiness. Dreaming and wanting something is not enough, you should your exact desire by achieving what you want or need, improving your talents and discipline.

There is no doubt that we, the young generation of the 21st century, want to be successful. The problem is, however, that the concept of success and the ways of achieving it are considered by different people in different ways, since – so many men, so many minds!

We are truly convinced that a person can be called a successful one if he manages to make his life meaningful not only for himself, but for other people as well, and that talent, hard work (discipline) and creativity are the key items of personal success. Our statement can be illustrated by the life story of Jared Leto, one of the most successful men of our time. To begin with, he is an extremely talented person. To be more exact, he can be called a man of many talents: an actor, a singer, a songwriter, a director, a producer, a philanthropist and a businessman. To add to this, he got 44 awards and 16 nominations and he is only 43! It would be a mistake, though, to think that he has managed to reach such heights only due to his brilliant abilities. One of the most striking features of Leto's personality is his self-discipline and his commitment to what he is doing, even though it could be exhausting and risky. In one of his TV interviews he admitted that for him to be a success meant to be compelled to hard work, otherwise it was not worth trying (<http://www.youtube.com>). As for creativity, it proves to be the other side of talent, as the latter is revealed in innovative activities and projects. For example, alongside his amazing achievements in music and film acting, J. Leto made his directorial debut and launched some business and charity projects. The fact that all of them turned out to be successful speaks for itself!

Meanwhile, some people believe that favourable social environment is a predominant issue. They claim that if you happen to be born into a rich or a famous family, your road to success has already been paved and talent and discipline are of no vital importance.

We cannot agree with this point of view, because there have been many occasions throughout history when people were given an opportunity to realize their potential but they failed, as they were not accustomed to making any efforts and lacked enthusiasm and creativity.

In conclusion, we must say that despite different opinions the importance of talent, discipline and creativity as essential parts of success can hardly be overestimated.
