Personality

Orion is an emotional cat, normally wearing his heart on his arms. He is quite expressive with his emotions and body, and you're able to tell very easily if something has piqued his curiosity or if he is upset about something that day. Orion sees the world with quite the romantic lens, brought on by the stories of their history he was told as a star and the work he saw Coordinators do around the camp.

Orion is a shy cat often, not really knowing how to take praise well from others without getting flustered himself. Instead, he'd rather much let the focus be on other cats than himself. As he is a kitty-pleaser, and would rather his compliments be on the work he does around the colony and not on himself. Even going far as to slouch himself, as he is weather tall, to let others pass by over him at times.

Orion tends to be a more idealistic cat than anything. Getting caught up in his own world of ideas that could possibly be achieved for his colony. Finding it confusing when something of his can't get done. Especially, if it was something he was working on - as whatever he is personally working on has to go his way. Orion starts to panic whenever things don't, as he doesn't know what kind of outcome can happen because of this quick change.

History

✧ Chapter Zero ✧
new constellations [0-m.]

Orion was born to Apollo alongside his siblings, Hydra and Andromeda. Apparently, they all had another father? Orion was always curious to ask about it, but there always seemed to be tension surrounding it. And he never wanted cats to make others uncomfortable at his own curiosity. He always wants others to be happy, so he would give his father that silent support just by sleeping in his pelt.

Orion thought about a lot of things as he started to grow. He wasn't really as outwardly curious in exploring as his siblings, he was always frightful of the stories of ghosts and evil spirits that lurked the territory. That part was important too! But, Orion just didn't want to intrude on his sisters' bonding moments. He usually preferred listening to the stories of their colony, he always liked hearing about those.

✧ - Picked up his father's curiosity for things. Except his curiosity is with different stories that can be told.

✧ - Believes the stories of how ghosts will go after solitary cats. Usually prefers to do things as a group with others or with his siblings.

✧ - His love language is quality time and acts of service.

✧ - Always loves to sleep in his fathers pelt. It makes him believe that he is sleeping with the stars in the sky.

✧ - Will probably grow up to be a Coordinator

Design Notes

- ✧ - Soppo creature, big teary eyes and floppy ears(not folded!)
- ✧ - Awkwardly tall, tries to slouch or loaf to hide his long legs
- ✧ - Oriental features (Big ears, long muzzle, etc)
- ✧ - Reminds me of Sobble from Pokemon. Bug ol' bug eyed creature.
